TWA to Add Two North-South Flights

Schedule Effective On June 1

Speed Trips To Coasts

Newly-scheduled commercial air flights, designed to give speedier travel to the east, south and south-west, were announced last night by Thomas Ansel, manager of Mansfield's TWA office.

The new schedule, effective June 1, will double north-south service to and from the city with the addition of two new Cleveland-to-Cincinnati flights per day. An earlier connection to Los Angeles and the west coast also is scheduled.

The new daily flight schedule will be:

Flight 691 (new), Cleveland-to-Cincinnati; leaves Cleveland 7:30 a. m.; arrives in Mansfield 8:05 a. m.; leaves 8:10 a. m. and arrives in Cincinnati at 10 a. m. with stops in Dayton and Springfield.

Flight 457, New York to Chicago; arrives 10:10 a. m.; leaves 10:20 a. m.; arrives Chicago 12:55 p. m.

Flight 694, Cincinnati to Cleveland; arrives 1:15 p. m.; leaves 1:20 p. m.; arrives Cleveland 1:50 p. m.

Flight 690 (revised) Cincinnati to Cleveland—arrives 5:25 p. m.; leaves 5:30 p. m.; arrives Cleveland 6 p. m.

Flight 450, Chicago to New York—arrives 6:30 p. m.; leaves 6:35 p. m.; arrives New York 10:10 p. m.

Flight 695 (new), Cleveland to Cincinnati, arrives 7:05 p. m.; leaves 7:10 p. m.; arrives Cincinnati 8:40 p. m.

SWITCH CREWS

All Mansfield air travelers, making connections at Cincinnati for southern points, will travel south in TWA planes crewed by Delta air lines men.

Ansel said the arrangement also effective June 1, was made possible through an interchange-of-equipment agreement between TWA and Delta, allowing both Delta and TWA planes to service air travelers from Detroit to Atlanta.

Primarily designed for the convenience of passengers, the arrangement is also expected to speed delivery of airmail, express and freight. It will eliminate the need for transferring cargo from one plane to another at Cincinnati.

Principal terminal connections for the new flights will allow

Legislators Rip Chiang

NANKING, Sunday—(AP)—Nearly half the elected members of China's legislature rebelled today against what they called an attempt by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to appoint one of their officers.

More than 300 members of the 773-member legislative Yuan took out their anger on Chen Li-Fu, who has been put forward by the ruling section of the Kuomintang (government party), as vice president of the Yuan.

They held a rump session in a tea house and accused Chen of using a tenth of his energies in fighting the communists and the rest "against Kuomintang members themselves."

Most of the rebels were members of the Kuomintang. They said they had received a warning from Chen's office to support Dr. Sun Fo for president and Chen for vice president in Monday's election.

The rump session, however, agreed to support Dr. Sun for president. It proposed Fu Su-Nein, a former Peiping educator now lecturing in the United States, as vice president.

Bull Stages 40-Minute, Wild Rodeo

DETROIT — (AP) — A bull staged a 40-minute rodeo all its own in Detroit's packinghouse district Saturday, hooking one man in the seat of the pants and terrorizing a woman. A shot from a deer rifle finally ended it.

The bull broke out of a pen at George Fineman's slaughter house and made a dash for a busy Michigan avenue. On a corner the bull cornered a woman and tore her dress. The woman wasn't hurt except for the fright.

Charging into the yard of a porcelain company, the bull hooked the seat of a workman's pants and tossed him over a light truck. The workman was shaken but otherwise unhurt.

Reds Spend Billion on Research

Work on Atom Bomb, Develop New Tank

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Soviet Union spent more than $1,225,000,000 on atom bomb development and other military research in 1947, an American intelligence chief reported Saturday.

The information came from Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, assistant director, Central Intelligence Group, Washington.

Writing as an individual, rather than as a CIG official, he said also in an article prepared for the 1948 Britannica Book of the Year that:

Russia laid out at least $9,000,000,000 in 1947 for new equipment.

The USSR kept more than 500 German scientists at work on guided missiles and other new weapons — among them a new tank which probably is the largest ever built.

The end of the second full post-war year found more than 15,000,000 men in the land forces of all nations.

The strength of the active force of the armies of each of the great powers was listed as—USSR 3,800,000, United States 670,000, Great Britain 650,000, France 430,000.

CHINESE ARMY LARGEST

China was tops with 5,750,000. But these troops were split into two camps by civil war. Turkey ranked third with 675,000 men.

Sibert wrote that the Red army kept the 3,800,000 figure although 30 classes of conscripts were let go after World War II. He added:

"Demobilization was on a systematic and selective basis, with basic infantrymen quickly released while technicians and armored force troops were retained. The result gave the Soviet Union an army with special skill in armored warfare.

The United States—listed as "the only major power without peacetime conscription" — saw its army drop to "the equivalent of 13 divisions and 670,000 men," said the general.

Paris Hails Royal Couple

PARIS—(AP)—Parisians, enjoying a bright semi-holiday, thronged the Seine river's many quays by the thousands Saturday to hail the passage of Britain's Elizabeth and Philip.

The Princess and the Prince rode a French naval launch which in honor of the royal visitor was named "Princess Elizabeth."

They were on their way to a reception given for them by the City of Paris in the Hotel de Lausun on the Ile-St.Louis, an island in the middle of the Seine.

The couple will go to the races at Longchamps today, then visit the Duke's uncle, Prince George of Greece.

Prague Uncovers Plot To Assassinate Reds

PRAGUE —(AP)— A plot to assassinate communist leaders in Czechoslovakia was uncovered with the arrest of 16 persons, security police said last night.

The arrested persons were said to have been members of the now-dissolved anti-communist National Socialist party. The police announcement said they had been encouraged in the plot by broadcasts from London.

Chrysler May Set 'Pattern'

Union Awaits Strike Outcome

A high CIO official indicated Saturday that the wage settlement eventually agreed on in the strike of 75,000 Chrysler corporation workers would form the pattern for current negotiations with such other large corporations as Westinghouse.

Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO-United Automobile Workers and acting president since Walter Reuther was shot, asserted in Philadelphia that the Chrysler strike was labor's biggest battle and "the most important."

The walkout, he said, "will set the wage increase pattern not only for the auto, but for all the nation's basic industries."

"I think the steel workers, the coal miners and the electrical workers will be able to get the same wage increase we eventually win," he told a news conference.

Mansfield has approximately 5,000 members of the United Electrical Workers union.

SEEK 30-CENT BOOST

Chrysler workers struck in support of a 30-cent hourly wage boost.

"We told the corporation we would accept 17 cents an hour without a strike," Mazey declared. "Now that we've been forced to quit work, we want 30 cents."

Other developments on the labor front yesterday included a spectacular announcement by the Ford Motor company that it would fight to the last the UAW's demand for a 30-cent hourly wage increase.

In Boston, CIO steelworkers voted their union another $5,000,000 a year in dues after hearing President Philip Murray warn that more than 50,000 of them may be on strike before the year ends.

Ask Lifting Of Embargo

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Some congressional voices were raised Saturday for ending the embargo on shipment of arms to the Middle East, to help the new Jewish State of Israel.

Lawmakers continued to give generally favorable reception to President Truman's recognition of the one-day-old state, now under Arab attack.

Senator Taft of Ohio told reporters he will take part in a rally Sunday night in New York's Madison Square Garden to celebrate the founding of the state.

He recalled that he long ago had urged recognition of the Jewish state, and also urged that the U. S. join in forming an international police force, through the United Nations, to maintain order in the Middle East.

Taft hopes to be the Republican opponent to President Truman in the November election. Another GOP presidential possibility, Senator Vandenberg has called recognition "logical and proper."

West Coast Misses Talk

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Democratic national committee officials said last night that President Truman's speech to young Democrats Friday night was not broadcast on the west coast. They would like to know why.

"But there isn't any formal investigation about it," said Kenneth D. Fry, the committee's radio director. "We're just interested."

The broadcast went out on the Mutual Broadcasting system wires. Mutual's outlet on the coast is the Don Lee network of 40-odd stations in California, Oregon and Washington.

Free Vacation Trip to New York

News-Journal Offers Pupils Big Week End

Two high school pupils, a boy and girl, will spend a gala three-day week-end on a trip to New York this summer with all expenses paid as guests of The Mansfield News-Journal.

The trips will be awarded to a boy and girl student for writing the best essays based on "Men of Erie," a history of the Erie railroad.

The essay competition will be open to pupils in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades of both Mansfield Senior high school and Madison high schools.

The Erie railroad history, upon which the essays are to be based, will begin appearing in condensed form in The News-Journal Monday. The six installments, one each day during the coming week, tell of the early struggles to build a railroad through this area a hundred years ago.

DEADLINE MAY 28

In order to win one of the prizes, contestants must write and submit an essay of not more than 1,000 words, based on the serialized story of "Men of Erie" to the News-Journal Erie Contest editor on or before May 28.

Entries will be judged by a committee approved by officials of both schools, with Principal Glenn W. Rohleder acting for Mansfield Senior high and Supt. Olan LaRue representing Madison.

Winners will be announced in the News-Journal shortly after the close of the contest.

PUPILS GO IN GROUP

The holiday week end in New York will begin on July 10 and will include besides the two pupils from the Mansfield area approximately 40 other winners from towns and cities in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and New York. The railroad will provide the transportation and chaperones for the trip.

The contest will be limited to pupils who, during the current semester, were in the tenth, eleventh or twelfth grade of either school.

Judges of the contest, and details of the trip will be announced next week. The first installment of the serialized history will appear in the News-Journal Monday. Watch for it.

DEMS TO MEET

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Leading Democrats gather here Thursday to select the keynoter for the Democratic National convention.

Dewey Wins Washington

BELLINGHAM, Wash.—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey Saturday won 16 out of 19 delegates elected at the Washington state Republican convention.

The result was a shut-out for the forces of former Governor Harold A. Stassen and Senator Robert A. Taft.

In Vermont, where nine delegates to the national convention were chosen yesterday, both Stassen and Dewey have supporters. While the delegation will go to Philadelphia officially unpledged, the two candidates ran far ahead of others in a preference poll taken among delegates at the state convention.

Stassen led with 168 votes; Dewey got 131. Far back in third place in popularity was Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio with only nine.

The old-line Republican state organization won control of the delegation against the challenge of Gov. Ernest W. Gibson and renamed James T. Dewey, well-to-do industrialist and distant cousin of the New York Governor, as national GOP committeeman.

Bus Drivers Study Offer

EAST LIVERPOOL —(AP)— A threatened tieup at midnight today of bus transportation for 45,000 persons in the upper Ohio valley was averted yesterday when AFL-bus drivers agreed to vote on an offer of a 15 cents hourly wage increase.

The vote, affecting 131 drivers, will be tabulated Thursday. The drivers, now paid $1 hourly with time and a half for overtime and a profit-sharing arrangement, have asked a 30-cent increase.

The company's 80 unionized mechanics previously voted to walk out to enforce demands for a 20-cent boost over their present scale.

Mansfield Art Exhibit

Guild Opens Show Today

Mansfield Fine Arts Guild's third annual May art show opens today with a private showing for members and invited patrons at the Mansfield Public Library.

The exhibit will be held from 2 to 5 p. m. Patrons are asked to bring their invitations.

Thrown open to the public on Monday, the show will run through May 26 from 1 p. m. to 8 p. m. daily.

Honored places in the exhibition will be given to prize-winners, Mrs. Ruth Curren of Shelby, first place in oil paintings; Mrs. Margaret Twitchell Swank, Lekington, R. D. 1, second place in oils, George Biddle of Mansfield, first place in water colors; and Mrs. Martha Bernat, first in sculpture.

Winning entries were chosen by the art show judges, A. Reid Winsey, art director at DePauw university; and by Peter P. Dubaniewicz of the Cleveland School of Art.

Raps Strike Violence

Minnesota Governor Warns Pickets

SOUTH ST. PAUL — (AP) — Massed pickets and sympathizers in the packing house workers strike, driven from streets here Saturday by national Guard bayonets, were told by Gov. Luther Youngdahl that "you can't win a strike by anarchy."

Five hundred persons swarmed at the state capitol after National Guardsmen, called out Friday by the governor, cleared the way for entry of more than a score of workers' automobiles to the strike-bound Swift and company plant.

Several skirmishes developed during the morning as an estimated 500 persons collected at the town's main intersection. Guardsmen battled three men, one of whom atttempted to seize a guardsman's rifle.

Standing on a stool in his reception room the governor told the group 'you can't win a strike by anarchy—you cannot win a strike by violence."

The governor referred to the raid on the Cudahy plant at Newport late Thursday. About 200 men slugged a number of workers housed in the plant and damaged the interior.

"As long as I am governor I will not permit anything like that to happen," Youngdahl said. "No self respecting man sitting in the governor's chair would permit law and order to break down."

The governor told the group he had called out the Guard in the CIO United Packing House Workers strike at South St. Paul and neighboring Newport as a "last resort."

Texans Try To Convince Ohio War Vet

MADISONVILLE, Tex.—(AP)—The growls of an Ohio war veteran Saturday won him the title of Texas Hater No. 1 and the privilege of being "killed by kindness" in the Lone Star state.

Ray F. Halloran, of Cincinnati former Texas trainee and Jap captive who says Texans gave him a worse time than the enemy, was announced winner of a national contest sponsored by the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's association.

Object of the competition was to find the veteran with the worst opinion of Texas — and then change his mind. The Sidewalk Cattlemen will bring Halloran to the big state May 20. For 11 days Texans will display the wonders of the southwest for his critical gaze.

Wichita Falls is stewing because the Ohioan said it had a terrible climate, no scenery and no pretty girls. The city can't do anything about its climate and scenery but it's going to show Halloran some "purty gals" if it has to import them from Amarillo, Papalote, Pescadito or Wink.

AMNESTY PROMISED

MANILA, —(AP)— The Manila Times said today a general amnesty would be issued Monday or Tuesday for the Hukbalahaps, the peasant guerillas who have been fighting the government for two years.

Bigwigs Will Go A-Golfing

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Senator Taft (R-Ohio), Mortimer Snerd, Margaret Truman, Bing Crosby, Dizzy Dean and General Omar Bradley will go a-golfing today in one of the wackiest one-day tournaments ever held.

They're playing in the Washington Post's second annual National Celebrities Golf tournament.

Its entrance requirements are tougher than they are for the PGA for all entrants must be able to answer "yes" to the question: Are you a somebody?

Of course, there'll be golfers around, too. Among them will be these seven former national open champions: Byron Nelson, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen (who won twice), Craig Wood, Chick Wood, Lew Worsham (the present champion), and Freddie McLeod (who won the title 40 years ago).

Wide string of vocations will be represented:

From the screen and radio will come Crosby, Snerd and Charlie McCarthy, and, obviously, Edgar Bergen.

BASEBALL REPRESENTED

Baseball will present Dean, Tris Speaker, Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler, Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, and Del Webb, a part-owner of the New York Yankees.

From politics will come Taft (a good golfer, by the way), Senators Fulbright (D.-Ark.) and Lucas (D.-Ill.) and Representatives Arends (R.-Ill.) and Smathers (D.-Fla.).

From the cabinet: Attorney General Clark, Secretary of the Navy Sullivan, Secretary of the Army Royall and Secretary of Air Symington.

Secretary of State Marshall and Postmaster General Donaldson will assist in the scoring.

Canada is sending its skating queen, Barbara Ann Scott.

From the girl golfers will come Babe Didrikson, Betty Jameson and Helen Dettweiler.

All in all, it adds up to somethink like 57 celebrities.

This includes a mighty cute caddy, film star Margaret O'Brien.

Loss Set at 4 Millions

EVERETT, Mass —(AP)— Three explosions and fire yesterday killed one man and caused damage estimated unofficially at $4,000,000 at the Boston Consolidated Gas company.

A sludge storage tank blew up. Flames shot 250 feet in the air and a column of heavy smoke rose into the sky. Eight buildings were levelled.

Identity of the victim was not definitely established immediately.

Frank Cochran, assistant superintendent of the company, said he was Frank Amatto of Somerville, an employe of the gas company. Other sources believed the victim was Moses Smith, a Boston workman.

A sludge storage tank blew up with a roar heard for miles. Many workers at the sprawling works were burned by flying embers, none seriously enough to need hospitalization.

Flames shot 250 feet in the air and a column of heavy smoke rose into the sky to hang over half of this city of 50,000 and part of Boston, six miles away.

Young GOP's Hit 'Policing'

TOLEDO —(AP)— Congressional policing of personal, political and economic beliefs was opposed vigorously in a resolution passed here Saturday by the Midwest Council of Young Republicans.

Adopted by the council was a resolution to reduce the organization's maximum age for membership from 40 to 36.

A resolution which would have placed the council on record as calling for the disbandment of the House un-American activities committee, with its functions to go to the justice department, was tabled.

Artillery Units Hit Villages

Newborn Israel Under Attack

(By Associated Press)

Arab armies invaded Palestine Saturday from three directions and bombed all-Jewish Tel Aviv, but they had yet to come to grips with the army of newborn Israel.

The Egyptians, with tanks, artillery and planes, invaded from the south, and were reported to have occupied Gaza, Arab coastal town 20 miles inside Palestine.

The Lebanese drove down from the north and claimed the occupation of a village inside the new state of Israel. Syria and Trans-Jordan—the latter with armored units of King Abdullah's Arab legion—moved in from the east.

Fearful of General Jewish-Arab conflict, the United Nations security council speeded into an extraordinary session at Lake Success. The meeting was precipitated by a formal note from Egypt announcing her armies were marching across the frontier.

In Washington it was learned that President Truman may lift or modify his embargo on shipment of American weapons of war to Jewish and Arab countries in the Middle East. He was reported studying the entire question of arms exports in connection with Palestine.

AL DANGOR RAZED

The Egyptian defense ministry said two columns of regular infantry and artillery drove over the frontier, destroyed the Jewish desert colony of Al Dangor and passed another on the way to Arab Gaza on the Mediterranean coast. A dispatch to a Cairo newspaper said Gaza was occupied by the Egyptians.

Egyptian fighter planes and bombers hit what a communique said was a military airport in Tel Aviv and two other Jewish settlements. Haganah, the Jewish army, said Tel Aviv was attacked three times during the day with bombs falling near the airport and power station. Haganah said one plane was downed and its Egyptian pilot taken prisoner.

Haganah also said Lebanese army troops were counter-attacking at Malikya, a village a mile inside the northern frontier of fledgling Israel as defined by the United Nations decision on partition. The Lebanese said Malikya had fallen.

Associated Press Correspondent Daniel De Luce said an armored car column of King Abdullah's Trans-Jordan Arab legion occupied Jericho, 20 miles northeast of Jerusalem. Long convoys of infantry, artillery and light armor took up positions over a broad area in the Judean hills in Arab-populated territory, De Luce said.

Farther north advance patrols of the Syrian army moved in south of Galilee, a dispatch from Damascus said. This is also in territory claimed by Israel.

Calls U. S. 'Confused'

LONDON — (AP) — A Soviet commentator said last night that the "confused behavior" of American diplomacy following the Smith-Molotov exchange of notes "is caused by the pressure of reactionary circles who are continuing to exert pressure on United States foreign policy."

Commentator Leontiev referred in a Moscow radio broadcast to the talk between U. S. Ambassador Walter B. Smith and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov May 4 and the diplomatic exchange between the two.

Leontiev quoted what he said were United States press criticisms of America's "changed attitude" on possible Russian-American negotiations and added:

"It would appear that the French and British governments are displeased with the possibility of bi-partite negotiations between the Soviet Union and the U. S. A.

"On the other hand, democratic public opinion of the entire world warmly approved the clear and unambiguous stand of the Soviet government."

Not Resigning

LAKE SUCCESS —(AP)— Warren R. Austin grinned broadly Saturday and said "I am not resigning." He commented in the delegates' lounge of the United Nations headquarters when newsmen asked him about reports that he was leaving his post as chief United States delegate to the U. N. because of President Truman's surprise recognition of Israel.

Club Picnics To Highlight Year's End

Hypho Outing Set At Mohican Park

By MARGIE GOODMAN

The whirlwind of activities at high school increases with the drawing to a close of the school year. More club picnics are scheduled for the next few weeks.

Among them are Hypho picnic which will be held at Mohican State park on May 25 at 4 p. m. Barbara Jordan is general chairman.

German Club will open their picnic to alumni as well as members. The place is the home of Richard Nixon, their adviser, on May 23.

The club has elected the following officers for next year; Joe Haring, president; Eugene Griesback, vice-presidnt; Mathilde Enrody, secretary, and Charlotte Boyd, treasurer.

On May 19 at South Park the annual G A A picnic again will take place. The committees are: awards Betty Calmes, Shirley Noel, and Carol Jean Ross; initiation, Charlotte Boyd, Roanne Ferry, Mary Jane Halvax, Betsy Clark, Mona Hammon, Katherine Beatti, and Margaret Reese.

Tryouts for readers for the senior class will and prophecy were held May 11. Earl Heasley, our dramatic teacher, and Ralph Shuper, the class adviser, selected Rodney Blahnik to read the prophecy and Pat Lindbeck to read the will.

HI-Y CLUB BANQUET

The Half-Century Sophomore Hi-Y club held a Mother and Son banquet at John's Park pavilion on May 11. Charles Young was toastmaster for the affair. Phil Bolin welcomed the mothers.

A new idea is being tried at the Senior Prom this year. Richard Leech, a photographer from the Caroll Studios of Shelby, has been engaged to take pictures of couples who have requested that he do so. These orders must be put in in advance. The glossy prints are 50 to 75 cents, and a plain picture in a frame is 75 cents to a dollar.

The Mansfield Council of Churches is bringing the renowned author, Kirby Page, to Mansfield on May 17. All Blue Tri girls are invited to come and the junior and senior clubs are cancelling their regular meetings in order to attend this lecture.

Crescendo Club will hold a picnic on June 13. Jean Robinson, Joanne Salyes, and Betty Garver are planning the food and entertainment.

Twenty-two Junior girls were selected for ushering at either Commencement or Class Day. They are: Marilyn Bell, Susan Stoodt, Martha Shiplet, Rita Richert, Despina Neckas, Gizella Knefely, Anne Shawber, Sara Scott, Margie Goodman, Barbara Blahnik, Jane Van Tilburg, Betty Garver, Ireme Harvey, Joy Humphrey, Pat Lehman, Carolyn Lee, Minnie Bradley, Mary Nixon Barbara Bowles, Merlyn Blackburn, Terry Edwards, and Mathilde Enrody. There will be 12 ushers for Commencement and 10 for Class day.

Miller Gives Lausche Nod

CLEVELAND (AP)— Ray T Miller urged the Democratic party Saturday to support his erstwhile opponent, Frank J Lausche.

Decisively defeated by Lausche in the race for the Democratic nomination of state governor, Miller had adopted the unusual tactic of remaining silent on politics ever since the primary May 4.

But Saturday, upon his return from a Bermuda vacation, he said in a statement

"I have no fault to find I was soundly beaten I congratulate the victor The Democrats chose my opponent to be their state standard-bearer in November. Accordingly the Democratic party owes him support."

SABOTAGE KILLS 20

CALCUTTA (AP) At least 20 persons were killed and 80 injured Saturday in a train accident attributed by police to sabotage.

Photograph of the Week

Century After Manifesto

Grandsons of Karl Marx Disagree On Communism

PARIS—(AP)—One hundred years after Karl Marx issued his communist manifesto, his two surviving grandsons differ sharply about the true heirs of his teachings.

Dr. Edgar Longuet, a prosperous physician in the Paris suburb of Maisons Alfort, is a staunch Stalinist Only recently he returned from six weeks of celebrating the manifesto's anniversary in Russia Poland.

His brother Marcel, a nearly penniless former newspaperman, lives with his bedridden son above a grocery store in a poor section of Paris. Marcel criticizes the communists for suppressing the opposition in Russia and believes the Marshall plan "can be very useful."

The brothers are the sons of Jennie, the younger of Marx's two daughters. She married Charles Longuet, a French professor in England, who later brought his family to France to live.

At 69, Dr. Edgar Longuet keeps up his medical practice but is no longer active in politics, although he leaves no doubt where his sympathies lie. His pleasant house and garden were a shelter for leading Polish communists fleeing the Gestapo during the German occupation For his help the Poles decorated him with the Order of Poland.

Dr. Languet received a reporter and photographer in a large, sunny dining room The table was neatly set for an appetizing French bourgeous lunch He reminisced about Marx as a kindly old man who used to come to see his grandchildren at Argenteuil then a well-to-do residential suburb on the Seine.

MARCEL NOT INVITED

The eldest of the family was Jean, who later became a socialist member of the French Chamber of Deputies He died in 1938 Jennie, named for her mother, lives with her brother Edgar Neither she nor Marcel was invited to Moscow

Marcel did not join the childhood strolls with the author of "Das Kapital" It was Marcel that Marx, in one of his last letters, calls the "noble unknown" He was five months old then and apparently Marx had not yet learned his name, Dr Edgar says

Marcel came to be a political reporter for the biggest dailies of Paris He worked with Georges Clemenceau when the future World War I premier ran the newspaper "L'Aurore." He knew Leon Blum and Pierre Laval.

"I wouldn't write a line under the occupation," he said. "Not even under another name. I haven't had a newspaper job since."

Recently he lost a small government clerkship in an economy shakeup. Unkempt, in ragged trousers and sweater, he stood and talked politics for half an hour at the door of his dangy flat.

His political stand is far to the left. Marcel Longuet considers himself a better Marxist than the communists or the socialists, whose anti-communist daily "Le Populaire" lay unfolded on the floor in a corner of the room.

"Parliamentary democracy is necessary," he said. "The parties in France today are in a terrible mess, full of careerists. But a strong democracy needs an opposition; it needs communists, just as it needs the rightest parties."

Marcel, however, avoided most questions about Russia and American economic aid to Europe. He said he had not studied either.

"I saw what my brother said about how wonderful things are over there in Russia," he said "He's just bewitched by them, There are a lot of things about Russia.

"But you don't see everything, even in six weeks."

Anti-Vice Crusader Says—

Indecent Literature Increasing

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK—(AP)—John Sumner's Society for the Supression of Vice is 75 years old tomorrow, but in no danger of running out of raw material.

In its time, the society has caused the arrest of 5,524 people and removed from circulation 16,978,338 items of varying obscenity. Even so, Sumner reports, offensive books are increasing, although generally the rise in immorality since the last war is not as great as it was after the first World War.

There are two theories about the increase in offensive literature, says the man who has been running the society for 43 years and has come to represent the spirit of moral consorship of the arts in this country.

"One theory is that publishers have become desperate because their business has fallen off," Sumner says. "The other is that communists or communist-inspired people are trying to undermine our morality through the arts.

"I have an open mind. I think there might be something to both ideas."

The organization recently changed its name to the Society to Maintain Public Decency because that title is more positive. But its work is still the same.

STATISTICAL BREAKDOWN

The statistical breakdown of the items it has seized in 75 years includes: 408,609 obscene books and items of sheet stock (mostly magazines, cartoon booklets, pamphlets); 3,488,861 pictures and postcards; 32,444 photo negatives and films; 609,678 "articles of immoral use"; 3,916,840 circulars and catalogs; 64 movie reels; 4,875 phonograph records, 8,516,967 "miscellaneous articles of a character not frequently found in circulation at the present time."

As the figures indicate, the bulk of the society's work is against those shadowy dispensers of pornographic postcards, grade Z movies, tricky novelties and the like

But Sumner's organization is best known for its clashes with the arts, where he thinks the line between artistic realism and lewdness is sometimes much too thin. As a result, among the people who won't be celebrating the society's anniversary are many of the nation's best known publishers, writers and theatrical folk.

Sumner looks like but doesn't talk like a crusader. He is gray-haired, hawk-nosed and 71 years old. But he talks easily, makes little jokes about himself and in general seems less like an evangelical opponent of sin than a genial insurance agent trying to be a regular fellow.

The most frequent charge from his detractors is that Sumner is a threat to constitutional freedom of expression. To this, he invariably replies, "There is no freedom to print filth."

TANGLES WIT CELEBRITIES

Armed with this reasoning and a section of the state penal law against obscenity, Sumner has tangled with various literary celebrities. His latest success came in 1946 when he won a court order banning Edmund Wilson's "Memoirs of Hecate County," but the case has been taken to the U. S. Supreme court.

In the theater, Sumner takes credit for driving Mae West and a play called "Sex" off the boards in 1927 and sending that lady to Welfare Island for 10 days. The same year, the society helped raise a furor over "The Captive," a play on a Lesbian theme. The leading players had to pay a sudden visit to night court.

"We also drove burlesque out of New York," Sumner says. "We started in 1935 when I investigated a complaint that strip-teases were being carried to extreme nudity."

But more typical of the society's work is its campaign against obvious pornography. Acting on a tip, an agent for the society recently walked into an uptown toy store and bought 10 dirty cartoon books. Later police found 200 more copies there. The owner was fined.

The society caused the arrest of the proprietor and two female models in an unorthodox school of photography where, it says, men were "permitted to come, pay a fee as camera hire and then, without any instruction or supervision, photograph the nude models." The owner was fined $250 and he and the models got suspended prison sentences.

OFFICE IN OLD FLAT

Elsewhere, the society acted against an amateur maker of records, a wholesale distributor of so-called "pin-up" pictures; a manufacturer of indecent "Christmas cards."

The society's office is located in a musty railroad flat of an old brownstone. Sumner has to spend a lot of his time reading matter which he thinks is harmful for the general public He does not think he has been harmed by the material he's looked over professionally in the last 43 years.

"I look at it legally," he says "Besides, you'd really be surprised how monotonous it gets. Anyway, the law was meant to protect the weaker element, not normal adults with sufficient self-control."

Sumner is the son of the late Rear Adm. George W. Sumner. He, too, originally wanted a naval career, but finally settled on law. A few years after graduation, a client told him the society needed a lawyer.

He joined in 1913 and became executive secretary in 1915 on the death of Anthony Comstock, colorful, pistol-carrying crusader. The society's reputation had just slipped as a result of Comstock's campaign against the painting, "September Morn." The campaign proved futile, the picture became popular.

The personal life of the executive secretary of the Society to Maintain Public Decency is quiet. He is married and a grandfather. His hobbies are stamp-collecting and crossword puzzles. His tastes in literature run to Booth Tarkington, Mary Roberts Rinehart, James Cronin and the serial writers in the slick magazines.

GI's Promise Aids Italians

NEW YORK—(AP)—An American GI's promise to help rebuild the world famous symphony orchestra of Florence, Italy, is well on its way to fulfilment.

Back in November, 1945, when the orchestra of the Maggio Musicale Florentino (May Musical Festival of Florence) of the Teatro Comunale gave a farewell concert for American troops who had remained to attend the U.S Army university there, the guest conductor was Sgt. Robert Lawrence of New York.

Sgt. Lawrence, a member of the Army university's music faculty, promised Pariso Votto, director of the Teatro Comunale (Municipal theater), that when he returned to his native land he would strive to raise funds to replenish the percussion and brass sections of the Florentine orchestra destroyed by a bomb.

After two years of effort, Lawrence staged in New York a musical festival starring some of the best known Italian artists now in the New York Metropolitan Opera. More than $10,000 was raised.

Meyers Hit In Tax Case

DAYTON—(AP)—A federal grand jury indicted former Maj. Gen. Bennett S. Meyers Saturday on a tax evasion charge.

Meyers, wartime No. 2 man in army airforce purchasing convicted of subordination of perjury in Washington, was accused here of causing the falsification of income tax returns of the Aviation Electric company of Vandalia, O., for the year 1941.

The indictment said that Meyers, disclosed to be the real owner of the company, ordered $9,423.60 paid in taxes on a claimed net income of $22,417. The actual income, it said, was $65,027, with $36,132.58 the true tax bill.

Papers Will Be Merged

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — The Minneapolis Star and Tribune company announced Saturday that the Minneapolis Times, a tabloid afternoon newspaper, will be merged with the afternoon Star and the Morning Tribune next Monday.

All have been published by the Minneapolis Star and Tribune company, of which John Cowles is president. The Times occupies a separate plant. There are no other daily newspapers in Minneapolis.

Rising costs were given as the reason for the merger.

The announcement said a majority of the Times employes will be offered jobs with the Star and Tribune so that their employment may continue without interruption. The others will receive liberal severance pay and a placement bureau will help them to find employment.

Flanagan Rites Set for Monday

BERLIN — (AP) — Funeral services for Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan, founder of Boys Town, Neb., will be conducted here Monday by Konrad Cardinal Count Von Preising

The body will be flown to the United States in a B-29 Superfortress bomber, the U. S. air force announced at Wiesbaden. A C-47 transport will leave Tempelhof airport Monday with the body, which will be transferred to the B-29 at Frankfurt.

Father Flanagan died here early yesterday. He had been inspecting facilities in Germany for the youths he loved so well, when he was stricken by a heart attack.

Lou Gregorio Pitches No-Hit Game for Tygers

Mansfield, New London Win Track Titles

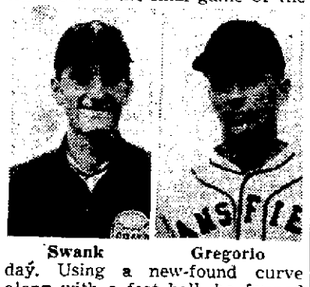
Bengals Win Two Shutouts

By CHARLEY STINE

Mansfield Senior high school was well on the road to the Class A district baseball championship after knocking off the two toughest teams in the joust yesterday at Liberty park.

Providing a fitting climax to a day which saw Senior high athletes triumph on all fronts, Lou Gregorio entered the high school hall of fame by pitching a no-hit game.

The little Tyger ace was in perfect form and came pitching near perfect game as he set Galion down without a safety in beating them 5-0 in the final game of the day. Using a new-found curve along with a fast ball, he fanned 14.



Swank — Gregorio

MEET IN FINALS

Mansfield had won their first game of the afternoon, 3-0, behind Shelly Swank, while Willard walloped Bucyrus, 15-1, in the second contest. Senior high and Willard will meet in the tournament final at 4 p. m. Monday.

Swank fanned ten men and did not issue a walk as he set Ashland down in the tourney opener. He allowed but four hits, all in the first three innings and held onto his scoreless record for the year. The lanky hurler has pitched 23 shutout innings.

Ashland's Dick Messner, hailed as the man to beat, beat himself. With two on and two out in the fourth inning he let a slow hit ball by Mike Gruberroll through him while Corky Perrine came home with the Tygers first run. Corky had gotten a life on an error and after Swank and Sparkie Watts struckout, Joe Miller had beat out a hit tothird.

7 ERRORS HURT

Willard banged out 15 hits and took advantage of seven Bucyrus errors in winning its game to enter the semi-finals. Don Voegel struck out 12 men and allowed but one batter to reach base on a walk.

The third game was all Gregorio. He fanned the first seven men to face him and allowed only four balls to be hit out of the infield. Two flies went to left and two to center.

He had a perfect game until he walked Wisler leading off in the fourth inning. The only other two baserunners came on errors in the sixth. With two down Mike Gruber booted a grounder and then Dye hit a high twisting fly behind second base. Center Fielder Perrine,Second Baseman Swank and Shortstop Watts all went after the ball and then pulled away. Watts finally dived for it, got it in his glove, but failed to hold on.

STARTS SHOW

Gregorio even stole the show on the offense, being the only man to get two hits. He singled in the third and again in the fourth, walking in the fifth for a perfect day at bat.

Four hits spelled three runs for the Tygers in the third frame. Others to hit safely were Charles Marchant, Watts and Joe Miller who doubled. In the fourth inning the Mansfielders scored again on a single by Marchant, Gregorio's hit and a wild pitch.

About Mansfield's New Umpire Club; Plus Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

THE CRY OF KILL THE UMPIRE is echoing throughout the country these days with the baseball and softball seasons just about in full swing. . . . However, Mansfield's rabid ball fans will have less occasion than usual to give out those irritable words. . . . The Mansfield umpires have taken it upon themselves to do everything possible to make their work above reproach. . . . In conjunction with the recreation department, the arbiters have formed the Mansfield umpires association. . . . The group now includes eleven qualified officials with John Gross acting as umpire-in-chief. . . . All the Mansfield umpires must be members of the Ohio State umpires association and all must pass rigid examinations on rules and conduct on the playing field. . . . New umpires will serve a probationary period of three weeks before they can be certified by the association. . . . They will all be uniformed the same—dark trousers, white "T" shirt and umpire's cap. . . . Next season identical dark shirts will probably be in vogue. . . . The umpire-in-chief will assign all officials for Mansfield softball league play. . . . Teams in need of umpires for exhibition and Sunday baseball and softball games can help the program immensely by hiring all of their umpires through Gross (6042-3). . . . This will insure the teams getting competent officials and help the association in its drive for better umpiring. . . . When one umpire works a game, the fee is $3.50. . . . If two are used the fee is $3 per man.

CUFF STUFF: Harry Osbun, Tyger track and football star, has his injured knee out of the cast and says, "It sure feels good." . . . Osbun was hurt in spring football and missed the whole track season. . . . He helped run the scoreboard yesterday at the district track meet. . . . Tyger sophomores did okay in the track point department. . . . Little Tommy Tucker led the way with 15½, Willie Fowler had 11, Don Cline 6, A. C. Jenkins 4, Ken Snyder 2 and Johnny Bricker 1½. . . . That's 40 of 84½ points. . . . Jenkins apparently had a second cinched in the high hurdles but hit the last hurdle, fell on his face and finished out of the money. . . . Ashland led for the first three events but lacked the Senior high balance and couldn't keep the pace. . . . Add things we cannot understand dept: Track coaches work all season with their proteges and climax the campaign by entering the lads in the district meets. Then at the last minute they scratch the lads. . . . Two of the events yesterday did not have full fields and some lads lost awards and teams dropped points. . . . The Senior high baseball team will view the Cleveland-Chicago White Sox twin bill today as guests of the Tyger booster club. . . . The lads were ticketed to leave today at 9 a. m. . . . Augie Morningstar, president of the Northern Ohio football league, will attend a loop meeting today in Canton. . . . League officials plan to draw up a charter. . . . It will be the first circuit session for Chuck Mather, Massillon's new coach.

Bricker, Lindsay Take Two

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

The 1948 track and field machines of Mansfield Senior high and New London proved no different from others of recent vintage.

They again put the class into the district cinderpath carnival yesterday afternoon at Stadium field. In fact the thinclad aggregations of Coaches Harry Mehock and Ed Chatlain had easier times than expected in running up the victory flags.

Senior high school powered to 82½ points to cop the Class A division for the seventh straight year. The New Londoners came Order of Finish . . .

Here's how the teams finished:

CLASS A

Mansfield 82½, Sandusky 49½, Ashland 38½, Bellevue 13½, Port Clinton 10, Galion 9½, Bucyrus 9½, Upper Sandusky 7, Wooster 1 and Tiffin Columbian 1.

CLASS B

New London 32, Berlin Heights 27, Vermillion 24, Bellville 20, Harpster 18, Monroeville 14½, Green Springs 14, Chatfield 13½, Lexington 13, Marseilles 12, Melmore 7, Ontario 4½, North Robinson 3, Holmes-Liberty 2, Sulphur Springs 2, New Washington ½.

Only competition in Class A came from Sandusky with 49½ points and Ashland with 38½ while Berlin Heights had 27 tallthrough with 52 points and their fourth championship in a row, lies in Class B.

QUALIFY 11 MEN

Mansfield qualified 11 men and two relay teams in the state meet next Friday and Saturday and New London placed six men and one relay quartet. First two men in each event is eligible for the Buckeye state competition in Columbus.

In Martin Bricker and Burt Lindsay, a pair of seniors, Mansfield had double winners. The only other tandem winner in Class A was Bill Smith, Sandusky's fine middle distance man.

Bricker took both hurdle events and Lindsay won the shot and discus. Smith's wins were in 440 and 880. Bricker in the high sticks and Smith in the quarter-mile were the only repeaters from the 1947 meet.

Sandusky's Ernie Nimmons attempted to repeat in the century but was shaded by Jesse Poorbaugh of Ashland and Tommy Tucker of Mansfield.

WHOLE SHOW

This Tucker fellow, the mighty sophomore mite of Tyger athletics, was a whole show himself. Apparently fully recovered from a leg injury which has plagued him for two weeks, the ebony flash won the 220, placed second in the broad jump and anchored the winning 880-yard relay team.

That gave him the meet's individual scoring crown with 15½ points to Nimmons' 13. He edged Nimmons and Jim Warnock in a great stretch drive in the half-mile relay.

However, his greatest single contribution was a extraordinary furlong victory. He traveled the 220 in 21.7 seconds to break an all-time Tyger record of 22 seconds which stood up for nearly 20 years. Clayton Luckie set the mark in 1929.

Mansfield placed in all 14 events and won eight of them in their annual romp. Two more sophs -Willie Fowler and Don Cline- took care of the other

Harrison Dillard Cracks Four More Track Records

OXFORD —(AP)— Harrison Dillard, great Negro sprinter and hurdler for Baldwin-Wallace, ran his victory chain to 67 in a row yesterday to set a world record for consecutive wins in collegiate competition.

The old mark of 65 was set by Greg Rice, University of Notre Dame middle and distance runner, between 1941 and June 29, 1943.

Dillard smashed three stadium marks in winning the 220 yard low hurdles, the 120 yard high hurdles and the 100 yard dash in a dual meet between his college and Miami university.

He won the dash event in 9.8. The stadium record was 9.9, established by Tom Sharkey of Miami in 1926 and tied by Jack Pandley of the University of Dayton in 1938, and Harold Stout of Miami, in 1940.

Dillard cleared the high hurdles in 14.4, shattering the old mark of 15.1 set by John Saunders of the local school in 1941 and tied by Tom Mitchell of Indiana university in 1947.

COASTS TO WIN

He coasted to victory in the 220 low hurdles in 23.9, breaking the stadium mark of 24.1 set in 1941 by Saunders.

Despite the star's brilliant performances, Baldwin-Wallace was defeated by Miami in the dual meet, 70 to 52.

It was the second loss by Baldwin-Wallace in a dual meet in four years, the only other one in that period coming last year against Ohio State university.

Greg Rice's chain was broken at 65 by Gunder Haag, Swedish star, in the 1943 National AAU 5,000 meter run in New York.

Patton Knocks Off World's Sprint Mark

FRESNO, Calif. —(AP)— Flying Mel Patton, this country's main sprint hope in the Olympics, bettered the world's 100-yard dash record yesterday when he was clocked in 9.3 seconds. The University of Southern California star is co-holder of the official mark of 9.4 seconds.

Patton sped to the history making time in the twenty-second annual west coast relays. He nosed out Lloyd La Beach, Negro star, who will represent Panama in the Olympics, by inches with the latter closing with a rush. Three of the five timers caught Patton at 9.3 seconds. The other two watches showed 9.4.

The time was made under ideal running conditions. There was no aiding wind and the gauge showed under the 3.5 miles per hour required to make application for world's records.

Exhibition Tilt

The Penn Auto-Sporting Goods softball team will meet Ashland VFW at 2:30 p. m. this afternoon in Prospect park. D. Benny will pitch for Penn.

Softball Contest

The Ohio Sports Center softball team will battle the AVC nine at 2 p. m. this afternoon in Liberty park. Both teams start league play this week.

Grays Team Will Battle Lorainites

The Mansfield Grays will have the local semi-pro baseball scene all to themselves this afternoon as the Hawks and T. and E. Tavern are both scheduled in out-of-town games.

Defeated in their opener last week, the Grays will be after their first victory of the season when they face the strong Lorain Chicks at Blue Goose at 2:30 p. m.

The Chicks, also playing their first game of the season, are said to have a young, strong team. They were Lorain city champions in 1944, 45 and 46 and lost out in the final playoff series last year.

NEW PLAYERS

Many new players grace the lineup of the present team which is built around the keystone twins, Will and Walt Kaczay. Frank Mucha, probable starting pitcher this afternoon, held a record of 12 wins and one loss last year.

Ed Molnar, Chick manager, listed his complete lineup as follows: Will Kaczay, 2b; Walt Kaczay, ss; Kuruzs, cf; Vancs, 1b; Fossie, c; Majoras Homenik, rf; Lesnak, lf; Palacyi, 3b, and Mucha, p. Other hurlers who might see action are Bob Pekare, a right-hander with minor league experience, and Don Mitroff, 19-year-old speed-baller.

T. AND E. TRAVELS

T. and E. Tavern will travel to Greenwich in quest of its second win. Jack Heston will be on the mound for the Taverns with Loren Tischer behind the plate. The team will leave from the Tavern at 12:30.

Meanwhile, the Mansfield Hawks will open their season at Lucas with the game scheduled to start at 2 p. m. Jim Bolen will start on the mound for the Hawks. Others in the lineup will include: Dave Carter, rf; Eugene Owens, cf; Rollin Williams, lf; Karl Bruce, c; Strong, 1b; Robert McGruder, 2b; John Stokes, ss, and Venson, 3b.

Citation Leads All the Way In Rich Preakness; Vulcan's Forge Is Second

By JOHN CHANDLER

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md. —(AP)— Citation went to work on an "off" track yesterday and the great Calumet farm express came through on time and in front all the way to whip easily three rivals in the 72nd running of the Preakness stakes.

A cheering crowd of 32,244 persons made the fleet bay son of Bull Lea-Hydroplane 2nd the shortest priced horse in Preakness history, and Citation ran as true to form as he ever did in his brilliant three-year-old career.

SIXTH IN MONEY

Furthermore, he picked up $91,870, and shot his total earnings to $423,700. This makes him up to sixth in the list of world money winning horses. Because Faultless won the Gallant Fox handicap at Jamaica and Fervent was second Calumet Farm had the biggest money day of any single stable in racing's history.

Citation trimmed his closest rival, C. V. Whitney's Vulcan's Forge by six lengths, with Sylvester W. Labrot's Bovard third another four lengths away. Fourth and last in the skimpiest field since Count Fleet won the Pimlico classic in 1943, was King Ranch's Better Self, a half length back of Bovard.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who now has accounted for two Preaknesses, was jubilant as he came to the winner's circle after piloting Citation around the mile and three sixteenths distance.

"He won this race easier than he did the Kentucky Derby," Eddie said. The little Italian riding star said he tapped Citation just twice, once at the head of the stretch and then midway down the stretch run "because he's inclined to loaf a little."

Citation paid his many backers only $2.20, smallest price that could be returned. There was win betting only. Count Fleet paid $2.30 in the 1943 four-horse race.

HEAVY TRACK

The race was run over a track termed "heavy" due to a two-day rain ending last night, and the Calumet flyer ran the slowest Preakness since its distance was changed to a mile and three sixteenths in 1925. Time yesterday was 2:02 2-5, compared with the previous poorest time of 2:02 by Head Play in 1933.

Bovard took second by a head over Vulcan's Forge at the bend into the stretch, but the Whitney colt came on again to grab second money of $20,000.

The other two horses didn't run for nothing, either. Bovard got $10,000 for third and Better Self picked up $5,000.

ND Baseball 9 Beats State

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(AP)— Walt Mahannah pitched a four-hit shutout as Notre Dame whipped Ohio State today, 6-0, to split their two-game series.

The single run the Irish scored in the first inning would have been enough for Mahannah, but they got him four more in the second on a walk, two singles, a triple by Benny Kozlik and three Buckeye errors. Dick Magato, Ohio State starter, was the victim.

Lefty Holtcamp Beats Ashland Eagles, 4 to 2

ASHLAND—(AP)—Ed Holtcamp, southpaw from Euclid, held the Ashland college Eagles to seven hits yesterday as Heidelberg won 4 to 2 in an Ohio conference baseball game.

Holtcamp held Ashland fairly in check despite the fact his mates made six errors. Leo Strang went the route for Ashland and allowed eight hits.

Junior Baseball Meetings Set

Organization meetings for the Hot Stove league's junior baseball program are scheduled this week

Members of the Hot Stove league baseball committee will meet with the kids to help them line up their teams for the summer's competition. Teams in each of the voting wards will be formed to play in the three Mansfield circuits.

The leagues will be for youngsters 18 years of age and younger. Lads in the 16-17-18 bracket will compete in the Major league, the 13-14-15 years olds will play in the Junior loop and the younger fellows will compose the Elementary league.

Several of the ward teams already have team captains and managers. The others will pick their leaders at the get togethers.

League play is scheduled to begin on June 14 or 21 and teams will begin practice sessions after school is out. More than 300 youths have already signed up for junior baseball.

The meeting schedule follows: Tuesday, North Lake park, Wards 1 and 2 and Roseland district.

Wednesday, Sons of Herman, Ward 5 and Madison district.

Thursday, YMCA, Wards 1 and 2.

Friday, John Todd park, Ward 6.

All meetings will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Six teams have now signed for competition in the county junior league of the 16-17-18 age group. The clubs are: Shiloh, Ontario, Madison, Lexington, Bellville and Butler.

Athletics Kayo Yankees Twice

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Philadelphia Athletics solidified their hold on first place in the American league yesterday by knocking off the New York Yankees in both ends of a double-header 3-1 and 8-6.

A near-capacity crowd of 69,415, largest ever to see a Saturday baseball show at the Yankee stadium, saw the A's snuff out a ninth-inning threat by the Yankees to come through with the twin victory.

Trailing 8-4, the Yankees scored two runs with two out in the ninth and had the bases loaded as Phil Marchildon faced lefthanded hitter Yogi Berra. The Yankee catcher fouled out to first baseman Rudy York to ned the game.

The double win increased the A's lead over runner-up Cleveland to a game and a half. The third-place Yankees trail Cleveland by a game.

Joe Coleman, aided by two sensational catches by outfielder Elmer Valo, outpitched Frank Shea to cop the opener.

Hank Majeski, former Yankee, spearheaded the Athletics' 10-hit attack in the second game. He drove in five runs with a single and his fourth homer of the season to increase his total for the season to 24. Joe Page, who relieved starter Red Embree with the score tied at 4-4 in the fifth, was charged with the loss, his first of the season. Marchildon went all the way to register his fourth victory against one loss for the A's.

Cycle Races Listed Today

The first motorcycle races of the season will be held this afternoon as the powerful two-wheeled speedsters roar around the Mansfield Motorcycle club track.

Nine races will be run over the four-tenths mile oval on U. S. Route 30-N, seven miles east of the city. The racers are divided according to the experience of the rider - novice, amateur, or expert.

Entries will be accepted until shortly before race time. About thirty riders are expected to compete.

Cleveland Spanks Chicago White Sox, 7 to 1

Feller, Keltner, Gordon Star on Mound, at Plate

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Sparked by Bob Feller's six-hit pitching and home runs by Ken Keltner and Joe Gordon, the Cleveland Indians spanked the hapless Chicago White Sox 7 to 1 yesterday before a ladies' day crowd of 33,514.

In registering his fourth win of the season against two losses, Feller didn't give up a hit until the fifth when Dave Philley doubled. The Tribe fireballer lost a shutout in the seventh when Chicago tallied its lone run without the aid of any hits. Feller walked Aaron Robinson and Philley, the first two batters to face him in that inning. An infield out advanced both runners and Robinson scored on Cass Michaels' fly.

Keltner and Gordon connected for their home runs in the seventh. Keltner, the major league leader in the homer department, registered his 11th of the season to equal his total output last year. Gordon's smash was his fourth of the year.

GO RIGHT TO WORK

The Indians went to work on starter Joe Haynes in the opening inning. Thurman Tucker led off with a double and came in on Larry Doby's single. Manager Lou Boudeau doubled, filling the bases. Haynes then retired the next three batters. Keltner fanned, Dale Mitchell forced Boudeau at the plate and Jim Hegan popped to the third baseman.

Cleveland added two more runs in the fourth after two were out. Tucker singled and stole second. Doby walked and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Boudeau also walked, filling the bases, and Robinson scored Tucker and Doby with a single.

Gordon clouted his homer in the seventh after Robinson was hit by a pitched ball and Keltner followed with his round-tripper.

Bob Lemon and rookie southpaw Bill Kennedy will hurl for the Indians today in a double-header with the White Sox. Bill Wight and Orval Grove have been nominated for mound duty for Chicago.

Second Range Opens Tuesday

Mansfield's second golf driving range will open Tuesday at 9 p. m., Nick Linster announced yesterday.

The range, owned by Nick and Pete Linster and Dale Ross, is situated on Route 30-N just beyond Arlin field. After Tuesday, the range will be open from 9 a. m. until midnight each day of the week.

The Richland Driving range has 14 tees and is equipped for night operation. Buckets of balls will go for 50 cents and free instruction will be given. Clubs will be available.

The owners plan driving and accuracy contests for both men and women this summer.

The other range, which also is opening this season, is located on Cook road

Gorman-Rupp Slates Game With Stove 9

Gorman-Rupp's new night softball plant will be unveiled to the public Wednesday night.

The Gorman-Rupp club will play a practice game with Tappan Stove comany, of the Mansfield Industrial league, to initiate the field. The game will begin at 8:30 p. m. and admission will be free.

Official dedication of the field and lighting system has been scheduled Friday night. Appropriate ceremonies are being arranged. The Gorman-Rupp club will engage the strong Wooster Lumber softballers in the dedication game.

BOTH IN LEAGUES

Wooster and Gorman-Rupp are both members of Inter-city leagues. Akron and Canton are other cities in the Wooster circuit while the G-R team is in a loop which includes Ashland, Mt. Vernon, Galion, Willard and Marion.

The new lighting plant is reputedly the best in the state and the G-R officials are increasing the seating capacity to 2,000. Last year, the field made its bow, sans lights, and had a 1,000 person capacity.

After the first game, adults will be charged 40 cents and children 20. This includes federal, state and city taxes. There is ample parking space at the Gorman-Rupp field.

Dr. Stanton Sets Another Record

ARCADIA, Calif. —(AP)— Dr. Stanton hung up another world pacing record yesterday at 15,031 fans turned out for the final day of the Grand Circuit harness meeting at Santa Anita Winning the $10,000 Consolation pace, Dr. Stanton paced the mile and one quarter in 2:30 2-5. A week ago the seven-year-old "Cinderella horse" wheeled off the distance in 2:31, cracking the old record of 2:32 held by Jimmy Creed and April Star.

Buck Thinlies Rap Michigan For Easy Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Ohio State showed too much power for Michigan here yesterday and walked off with a 74-58 dual track meet victory.

Ohio's Lloyd Duff, outstanding Olymphic hope in the decathlon, counted 14 points, taking first in the 120-yard high hurdles and the broad jump, second in the 220-hurdles and third in the pole vault.

The 880-yard duel between Michigan's Herb Barten and Buckeye's Bill Clifford and Mal Whitfield brought about 1,200 fans to their feet as Barten came in three steps ahead of Whitfield.

Ohio came back in the one-mile relay with Barten and Whitfield running anchor. Whitfield had a three step lead on Barten to start and staged an amazing sprint to lead the Wolverine ace home by a good 25 feet.

Rex Mays Blasts Gas Buggy 130 Miles an Hour In Trials

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Rex Mays, who has entertained a lot of racing fans and burned up a lot of automobiles, yesterday won the number one starting position for the thirty-second annual 500-mile race May 31st.

It was the fourth time Mays had won the pole position for the Memorial Day sweepstakes. No other driver has held the pole more than twice.

The heavy-footed Glendale, Calif., driver took the ten-mile test at an average of 130.577 miles an hour, the second fastest qualification run in Indianapolis speedway history. His average was the best ever posted for the first day of time trials.

Mays had started in 11 races and finished only three. He was second in 1940 and 1941 and sixth last year.

Ralph Hepburn, who set the qualification record of 133.944 miles an hour in 1946, took several warm-up laps in a Novi special but didn't get to the starting strip in time to challenge Mays for the pole position. He had not handled the car for two years and was given the assignment only today after owner Lou Welch, Novi, Mich., and driver Cliff Bergere, Toledo O., had severed relations.

Mays turned in his near-record qualification after the one-two combination of 1947 apparently had taken over the first two spots in the starting lineup. Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., last year's winner, had qualified his Blue Crown Spark Plug special at 129.129. Second-place Bill Holland, Reading, Pa., qualified the other Blue Crown at 129.515.

Cincy Reds Pound Chicago Cubs, 5-2

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds walloped Starter Windy McCall and three successors for 14 hits to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 2, here yesterday and snap their losing streak at eight straight.

Herman Wehmeier, 21-year-old rookie who has been with the Reds for parts of three seasons, registered his first big league victory. However, he was routed in the sixth and had to be rescued by Harry Gumbert.

The Cubs collected eight hits off Wehmeier, including a home run by Bob Scheffing, and added two more off Gumbert. Babe Young paced the Reds with a single, double and triple.

THINGS LOOK BAD

For the first two innings the Reds looked as though they were in for another bad afternoon. They failed to score on a double, a single and a pass in the first round, and another single was wasted in the second.

They came through, however, with their first marker on a lone hit in the third. Claude Corbitt beat out an infield roller, stole second and moved over to third on a ground out. He came home when Johnny Wyrostek grounded to short.

Pin Excitement

DETROIT —(AP)— Art Behrns, 24-year-old war veteran from North Tonawanda, N. Y., threw some excitement into an otherwise dull day at the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday by rolling the second highest single game of the 1948 tournament, a brilliant 298.

Calumet Duo Take Gallant Fox Race; Stymie Far Behind

NEW YORK —(AP)— Calumet Farm's Faultless captured the $75,000 Gallant Fox handicap at Jamaica yesterday defeating his stablemate, Fervent, by a nose in a photo finish before 43,854.

W. L. Brann's Gallorette, leading money winner of her sex, finished third in the field of ten, half a length behind the Calumet pair.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, the top money winner of all time, finished far back. J. Tucci's incline was fourth.

Faultless covered the mile and three-sixteenths in 1:57 1-5 and the entry returned $6.00, $5.30 and $3.70 across the board. Gallorette paid $4.80 to show.

The victory was worth $60,300 to the winner.

Springfielders Take Crown

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Springfield high school's unbeaten track team added the southwestern district Class A team title to its laurels for the 12th straight time today, scoring 72½ points to beat Dayton Dunbar which chalked up 62½ points.

In Class B, Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home was first with 21 points and Dixon Township of Preble county was second with 22½ points.

Sandusky Club Wins District

FINDLAY — Sandusky won its second straight district golf championship over the Findlay Country club course yesterday.

Sandusky will defend its state championship next Friday and Saturday over the Ohio State university course in Columbus.

Mansfield Senior high, defeated only by Sandusky in dual meets, finished sixth and failed to qualify a man for the state tourney. Yesterday's play was almost entirely in the rain.

Dick Schwab

(News-Journal Outdoor Writer)

The May issue of Sports Afield contains an interesting and very informative article written by Louis Bromfield. Anyone who reads Bromfield's article or who is acquainted with the good work he is doing will realize that we here in Ohio and especially the people of this community are fortunate in having among us a man who has learned so much about conservation.

Better still, he also is putting that knowledge to work to show all of us better ways to farm and still have more game on the farm for good hunting. In his article, Bromfield takes time out of his busy life to tell us some of the things we should know whether we are sportsmen, farmers or just every-day citizens.

Space will not permit us to quote him as far as we would like but here are some random shots:

"One of the facts overlooked frequently enough by sportsmen and farmers, is that game animals and birds will not stay on eroded and depleted lands. No creature, including man, recognizes as well as wild animals the barrenness of warn-out farms. As regions begin to be farmed out, even though they return to a tax-delinquent state of wilderness, game will move out, into more fertile areas, leaving the wrecked countryside to complete and desolate loneliness. Perhaps a few squirrels or deer will remain in the deserted areas which are wooded and a rabbit or two but that is about all. Even the bird population of worn-out agriculture areas declines, and as every sportsman knows, these desolate areas provide poor picking."

"In certain areas where a poor agriculture has worn out or is wearing out the land, the wholesale slaughter of wildlife on the roads has become a serious problem for game management. It is only lately that research authorities have established the fact that slaughter comes about because the wildlife migrates to the roadside at night to feed off vegetation which, often enough, is growing on virgin land or on soil heavily impregnated by the lime and other minerals coming from the stone used to surface the roads. Both taste and instinct tell them that the roadside vegetation is far richer and healthier than that growing in the depleted farm fields on the other side of the fence."

"One of the perpetual problems facing the Ohio commission is the misplacement of the wild rabbit populations. It is probable today that the town and suburban population of rabbits far exceeds the rural population. As Ohio farm land in many regions has become depleted, the rabbits have moved in upon town and suburban gardens where forage is not only easier to obtain but it is of a much tastier quality owing to the use of minerals, fertilizers and composts in more intensively cropped garden areas."

For those of us who like to hunt pheasants and wonder why they are so scarce—we quote again:

"In order to obtain the highest protein content and therefore the highest price per ton, the farmers began mowing the first cutting of alfalfa two or three weeks earlier than in the past, thus catching the hen pheasants when they were nesting and before the young birds were hatched and able to escape. And they began mowing alfalfa at night when in the darkness even the bewildered hen was rarely able to escape the destruction which fell upon her nest and eggs. Investigation showed loads of green alfalfa litterly filled with slaughtered pheasant hens caught while nesting. One load was discovered which contained 27 dead birds. This, of course, meant not only the death of 27 pheasants but a minimum of 216 young birds which would never be hatched. It is not difficult to see how great was the holocaust created by the new farming practices."

His opinions on pollution are very interesting and we again quote:

"Pollution of streams and lakes by industrial wastes is at all times inexcusable; gradually the average citizen is becoming aware of the simple principle that streams and lakes belong to the people, and that industry has no more right to dump its unprocessed wastes into the streams than the citizen has to dump garbage and chamber pots out of the windows onto the sidewalk. The two cases are exactly parallel but it will require a long battle, even at this late date, to win this struggle for human decency, health and civilization against lobbies, vested interests and even short sighted and greedy chambers of commerce."

"It is true that while one city up river dumps its sewage into the streams, the next city down the river pumps its drinking water out of the stream and in turn dumps its sewage back in again. The same process is followed the full length of the river until it reaches the sea. At the same time bathing beaches are being closed along our Great Lakes, Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf shores because of the pollution in the waters.

"Why do we avoid as much as possible chickens and hogs that are garbage fed when we eat fish caught in sewage polluted streams and lakes? If a man is very much of a sportsman he can easily tell by the taste of the fish if it was taken from good clean or polluted water."

The Olentangy Beagle club conducted an American Kennel Club sanctioned field trial on their running grounds last Sunday.

The 13 inch class was judged by Marshall Truax of Mansfield and Bob Richey of Lakeville. First place went to a pup owned by E. L. Weaver of Wooster; second to Earl Weaver of Mansfield; third to W. Flick of Columbus; fourth to Milo Sprouse of Columbus and reserve to Charles Greer of Mansfield.

In the 15 inch class first place was copped by Bob Laser of Mansfield, who also took reserve; second and fourth went to W. Flick of Columbus and third place was taken by Charles Felton of Massillon.

The club will hold its next meeting May 15 at 1:30 to work out plans for future activities.

Toledo Trackmen Dominate Bowling Green Competition

BOWLING GREEN —(AP)— Toledo Devilbiss won the Class A team championship of the district track and field meet here yesterday, counting 52 points to defeat the second place Toledo Scott trackmen.

Toledo schools monopolized the meet. Toledo Libbey finished second with 41 points, Toledo Scott was third with 32½ points and Toledo Woodward hit seventh place with 11 points.

Oak Harbor shaded Lakeside, 50 5/6to 48½, in the race for Class B honors.

Leonard Truex of Lima Central tied the Class A half mile mark of 2:02, set by Mark J. Cromer of Toledo Libbey in 1938.

Other scores:

CLASS A—Lima Central 19, Fremont 14, Fostoria 12 Bowling Green 10, Toledo Waite 9, Findlay 8 Defiance 6, Wauseon 4, Elyria 3½, Maumee 2.

CLASS B—Clyde 35, Swanton 16, Gibsonburg 14, Delphos St. John 11, Delta 10 Spencerville 8, Amsden 6, Ada 5½, Lake township, Wood county 5, Pandora 4, Glandorf 4, Portage 3, Bascom 2, Olney 1.

Philadelphia Buys Pitcher Potter

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— The St. Louis Browns sold pitcher Nelson Potter to the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday in what club officials said was a straight cash deal.

Potter joined the St. Louis American league club in 1943 and won 10 games against five losses that season. Last year he turned in just four victories to 10 defeats. He was with the A's once before but was sold to the Boston Red Sox in 1941. His home is at Mt. Morris, Ill.

Ten Games Scheduled For Teams

Ten games this week will officially usher in the 1948 Mansfield league softball season.

All Mansfield leagues, except the YMCA sponsored Church circuit, will be in action. A pair of games in the Park league tomorrow night gets the program under way. In the openers, Gorman-Rupp Juniors go against Johns at Johns park and Prospect plays at North Lake.

League games are slated each night but Thursday.

For the early part of the schedules, all games will begin at 6 p. m Regulation seven-innings contests will be played with four and a half innings constituting an official game.

ODD TEAMS

Two of the leagues — Industrial and Independent — have an odd number of teams. However, the teams drawing byes will be assigned a diamond for practice or an exhibition game. If the teams play exhibition games, the City softball commission will furnish one umpire.

The 12-team Church league is scheduled to open May 27. Managers of the Church teams are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the YMCA.

The umpire assignments and schedule of games for this week follow.

Michigan Nine Still In Race

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., — (AP) — Michigan kept alive its big nine baseball title hopes yesterday by handing Illinois its first league defeat of the season, 5 to 4, before 6,227.

It was the largest Illini baseball crowd in 25 years.

The setback was the first for Illinois in eight conference starts and gave Michigan an even break in a two-game series which opened yesterday with a 3-2 Illini win.

The runner-up Wolverines now have an 8-2 record with two league games remaining against last-place Northwestern. Illinois has two games left against Indiana and Ohio State.

Canton Wins District Meet

SALEM—(AP)—Canton McKinley's powerful track squad yesterday won the Northern Ohio District Field and Track meet, scoring 42 points to edge Akron East's thinclads, who chalked up 34½ points.

Three double winners starred. J. V. Clifford, negro speedster from McKinley, copped both dashes; Bill Simmons, Akron East, took both hurdle events, and Bob Toneff of Barberton won both shot put and discus.

Toneff set a new record for the shot with a heave of 52 feet 7½ inches, bettering the old standard by 2 feet, 4½ inches.

Clifford tied his own mark of 22.3 seconds in the 200, while Simmons broke both hurdle records with jaunts of 14 8 in the highs and 25.4 in the lows.

Ray Hamilton of Canton McKinley also ran the high sticks in 14.8 during preliminaries.

Team scoring: Canton McKinley 42, Akron East 34½ Akron North 19, Barberton 16½, Akron Buchtel 12½, Warren 12, East Palestine 11½, Campbell 9, Mentor 9 Canton Lehman 8 Niles 8, Boardman 7½ Salem 6½, Fitch 5, Struthers 5, Louisville 4 Akron South 3½, Cuyahoga Falls 2 Akron Garfield 1.

Senior High, New London Win Titles

Tyger first places. Fowler won the high jump handily and Cline took the pole vault.

Junior Paul Ferguson in the pole vault and the mile-relay quartet of Kenny Cline, Floyd Guegold, Chuck Eagleston and Fowler were the other Bengal qualifiers Johnny Bricker, Eagleston and Bob Troll completed the 880 foursome.

Milt Bruckner, Bellevue miler, and the Bucyrus mile-relay team were the other Class A victors.

BELLVILLE FOURTH

Bellville, Richland county champion, took fourth in Class B with 20 points, Lexington had 13 and Ontario 4½. Lexington did contribute one of the outstanding individuals performers—Rollie Ford, Richland county's No. 1 point producer in basketball.

Ford copped the shot put, placed second in the discus and tied for third in the high jump. He tied Hal Erlenbach, New London, for high point honors with 12½

Bob Sprowl, Berlin Heights, was the only double victor as he notched the 100 and 220.

FOUR REPEATERS

Four of the Class B stalwarts repeated. Sprowl in the 100, the Berlin Heights 880-yard relay team, Phil White, New London high hurdler and Erlenbach in the lows ran up their second straight victories.

Several of the Class B lads bettered times turned in by their big brothers in Class A. Bill Garland, Green Springs, went two inches higher than Fowler in the high jump. However, the skinny Tyger did not try for heights after he won the event. Fowler Ford had the two top discus throws and O. Stone, Harpster, saved himself for his two 400 efforts.

Gerald Studer, Chatfield, and tied Cline's pole vault mark.

Taft Groups Push Drive For Backers

Ohio GOP Delegates Slate June Meeting

By FRED J. ZUSY

WASHINGTON — (AP) - Taft-for-President people in Washington aren't letting up on their drive to drum up delegates

With the June 21 convention at Philadelphia drawing close, missionary work is still going on full strength in states which have not yet named their delegates

The Republican delegates picked in the Ohio primary May 4 will meet in Columbus early in June, according to Clarence Brown, pre-convention campaign manager for Senator Taft.

This will include both Taft and Stassen delegates.

Brown has discussed tentative plans for the state meeting with Taft; Fred Johnson, state party chairman; Katharine Kennedy Brown, state committeewoman, Senator Bricker and Governor Herbert.

With Taft delegates predominating, a Taft-pledged man will be chosen as delegation chairman.

TO NAME COMMITTEES

Brown and Mrs. Brown (no relation) are expected to be renamed national committeeman and committeewoman.

Members of various convention committees also will be named.

Plans are being whipped into shape for the Taft drive at the convention

Rep. Bender, congressman-at-large from Cleveland, is in charge of the important floor demonstration and decorations. He promises an "all-out" effort.

Brown, himself a veteran of many conventions, will be Taft's floor manager, assisted by submanagers in the various states.

The Taft camp has not yet said who will make the nominating speech in his behalf Some guesses are that Bricker will be called on for the job.

Bridge Project, 2 Ditch Jobs Approved By County Board

Cleanout of two ditches and repairs to a bridge were authorized yesterday by the county commissioners.

Repairing of the beams and flooring of a bridge on the Butler-Newville road was authorized, to cost an estimated $404. The work will be paid for out of the road fund and done by county forces.

Approved was the cleanout and straightening of the Osbun ditch in Weller township. Cost of the cleaning is $777, to be paid for by the landowners benefitted, Jay F. Baker and Emmett O. Caster

The $40 cost of moving the equipment to do the work will be paid for by the county. R. O Darling, Mansfield contractor, was hired to do the work.

Also approved was the cleanout of a ditch in Butler township Landowners Ernest Poth, F. Harrington and C. A Carpenter will pay $567 of the cleanout cost.

Richland county will pay $50 of the cost as the cleanout will improve the Wharton road. The $30 cost of moving the equipment will be paid by the county.

The work will be done by the Darling company The county share of both ditch cleanouts will be paid out of the ditch fund.

Girl Slain Near Crib

BLACKBURN, England — (AP)— A three-year-old girl was snatched from her hospital crib early Saturday and slain in a field 200 yards away.

Discovery of the body of June Anne Devaney, her head battered and her thin nightdress ripped, touched off an intensive manhunt by police using hounds.

Police reached the hospital in answer to a telephoned report that a man was trying to get into the ground floor children's ward. They discovered that June, recovereing from pneumonia, was missing from her high-sided crib.

Police investigated the possibility of a connection with the murder last month of Jack Quentin Smith, 11, in a field at nearby Farnworth

Heads School For Chaplains

CARLISLE, Pa. —(AP)— Lt Col Arthur C. Peipkorn, 41 Saturday was appointed commandant of the U. S. Army and Air Force Chaplain school at Carlisle barracks

Col Piepkorn was ordained in 1930 as a Lutheran clergyman and went on active duty with the Army in 1940 after serving a pastorate at Cleveland

For the past two months he has been acting commandant of the chaplain school, which recently celebrated its thirtieth anniversary.

K-F Shares Bid Ignored

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Dealers in Kaiser-Frazer automobiles in northern Ohio turned down a suggestion they buy shares in a new issue of their company's stock, an Otis & Company securities salesman testified Saturday.

William J. Bushea of Otis told the securities and exchange commission that only one out of about 100 dealers he phoned went so far as to say he "might think it over"

The stock issue Bushea referred to amounted to about $10,000,000 and fell through later Otis & Company, a Cleveland investment house and principal underwriter, withdrew from its contract with Kaiser-Frazer after James F. Masterson of Philadelphia filed suit against the motor company in Detroit.

IT'S ALL DONE FOR YOU!

The dickering, that is. Many sellers develop a special fondness for their home when they decide to sell it. It grows in size and grandeur till it rivals Buckingham Palace in their opinion and they put a price on to match. This is natural, but it takes many long drawn out offers and refusals to bring the price back down to sea-level. Save this time and trouble by asking your Realtor for information on his

The Situation On Plumbing

Constant inquiries made to us makes it seem that an explanation is in order. Plumbing supplies, speaking as a whole, are still hard to get.

However, certain items are in surplus, due mostly to scarcity of other items. Don't buy a surplus item and be out on a limb for the hard-to-get.

We are obligated to supply the bitter with the sweet and in writing an order for a major item, we right then agree to furnish the necessary installation materials.

We are the only DIRECT BUYING retail plumbing supply in this area. Our prices are lower and quality is assured.

We maintain a pipe cutting and threading department to keep our customers in necessary small items when doing a job.

Atom Plant Faces Labor Difficulties

Strike Feared Next Month

WASHINGTON - (AP)— An AFL representative said Saturday the only hope of averting an atomic laboratory strike at Oak Ridge, Tenn. in June is for the Atomic Energy commission to move in and negotiate a contract with the workers.

Up to now the AFL atomic trades and labor council has been bargaining unsuccessfully with Carbide & Carbon Chemicals corporation, which operates the Oak Ridge National Laboratory under contract with the Atomic Energy commission.

The government owns the plant

The Federal Mediation service today renewed the labor-management talks here. But Kenneth Scott, AFL organizer at Oak Ridge, representing 900 persons in the laboratory, told reporters that he sees no chance of winning an agreement from the company.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

He disclosed that the workers have rejected the latest company proposal, made Wednesday

Silas W. Pickering II, industrial relations director for the company, told reporters that "there's always hope" of an agreement. He declined to say whether the offer was the firm's final proposal.

A strike in the laboratory was averted March 19 when the government, invoking the national emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley act for the first time, obtained an injunction requiring the company and the union to preserve conditions as they are

This injunction can run no longer than June 7. That means a strike could legally occur after that.

The union demanded a 15 cents an hour wage increase. The company offered smaller increases and is seeking to reduce vacation and sick leave benefits to make them uniform with those in certain other plants.

The union wants a contract providing for arbitration of disputes Carbide & Carbon has opposed arbitration in the making of new contracts. That is one of the major issues involved

Trading Hits Rapid Pace

NEW YORK — (AP) — In the heaviest Saturday trading for 15 years, the stock market hit another peak since 1946 on one of the broadest short sessions in the history of the Stock Exchange

Buying orders swamped the ticker tape from the start and "flash" quotations were printed throughout. The recording machinery fell as much as 13 minutes behind for the first time since 1929. It never did catch up although the pace slackened a trifle toward the close.

While bidding was fast and furious, quick-turn profit cashing appeared toward the finish and extreme gains running to 2 points or more were reduced in the majority of cases There was a smattering of pivotals in the losing division.

The day's volume was 2,590,000 shares.

For the day, gainers of 1 to 2 or more points, many reaching the "new high" class included Chrysler at 61⅞, Firestone Tire 50⅞

Grains Still Lag Slightly

CHICAGO —(AP)— Grains started off steady Saturday but backed down before the close. Losses were substituted for early fractional gains. The decline followed a letup in short covering in May contracts In part, the selling represented week-end profit-taking.

Trading was at a moderate pace throughout the session. Most of the early steadiness reflected firmness in stocks at New York However, the grain market did not show any pronounced response to the excitement in stocks, either from the standpoint of volume or prices.

Wheat closed 2 to 3½ lower, May $2.45¼-2.45, corn was 1⅞-3½ lower, May $2.29½-⅞, oats were ½ lower to ¼ higher, May $1.16½ and soybeans were 1 to 2 cents higher, May $4.06.

The first shipment of cotton from the United States, seven bags of "cotton wool," was valued at $112

4 Damage Actions Set For Hearing

Suits Filed as Result Of Traffic Mishaps

Four damage actions have been set for hearing this week in common pleas, all resulting from automobile accidents. The cases will be heard by juries.

A $1,338 claim filed by the State Automobile Mutual Insurance company will be heard Tuesday at 9 a. m. Defendants are C. J. and Louis C. Stanchfield, 293 Eighth avenue.

The insurance company says it paid that sum to Earl E. Bates of Mansfield for damages to his car as a result of a collision with the Stanchfield truck.

The petition contends the driver of the truck was negligent, causing the accident on Lexington avenue near Mendota street Sept 12, 1947. The Stanchfields allege that Bates was negligent.

Attorneys Marriott and Freehafer represent the insurance company, while Attorney H. M Rust represents the Stanchfields

SEEKS $12,000

A $12,000 personal injury action brought by Elizabeth Leitenberger, 336 First avenue, against Charles E. Tarbet, Shiloh, R D. 2, will be heard Wednesday at 9 a. m

She asks a judgment for injuries which she said she suffered when Tarbet's car struck a taxi in which she was a passenger. The accident occurred April 15, 1947, at Third and Mulberry streets

She is represented by Attorney C. H. Henkel, while counsel for Tarbet is Rodney B. Baldwin.

Set for Thursday is a $15,000 personal injury suit brought against Alfred A. Teeters, Loudonville, R. D. 3. The plaintiff, Harold M. Cole, 86 Glenwood boulevard, contends Teeters was negligent when his car struck the car in which Cole was seated on Park avenue east, near Adams street, Feb. 9, 1947.

Attorneys Anderson, Will and O'Donnell represent Cole. Counsel for Teeters is Robert L. Ross.

Also set for Thursday is a $355 - 50 damage claim of Motorists Mutual Insurance company of Columbus

The company says it paid $900 to Mrs. Irene Goddard for her car, damaged in a collision with the car of the defendant, John Sikola of Lexington R. D 1.

The firm adds it got $533.50 for the damaged car, but it lost $366 - 50. Sikola replied that the collision was caused by the faulty operation of the Goddard car by Russell Goddard, husband of the owner.

Attorneys Marriott and Freehafer represent the insurance company. Sikola's attorney is George W. Biddle.

Schoolboy Patrols Await North Lake Park Picnic

More than 300 schoolboy patrolmen are smacking their lips and unlimbering their muscles in preparation for their big picnic to be held at North Lake park Tuesday at 4 p. m.

Patrolmen from Mansfield schools will join with boys from 20 county schools at the annual fete sponsored by the Richland County Automobile club

One of the featured events will be a softball game between Richland county and Mansfield boys, Stanley W Kamen director of the city recreation department, announced yesterday.

He also said he plans to organize the boys into school teams for a potato race.

When the youngsters get through working up an appetite, they will sit down to a feast of 100 pounds of hot dogs, 55 dozen buns, 750 bottles of milk and a like number of ice cream bars.

Ansel said numerous other stops and connections are made on each of the six flights Rates to Cleveland are $3 51 one way or $7 02 round trip One way to Cincinnati costs the air traveler $12 13 or $24 26 the round trip

Ansel added that 95 per cent of all scheduled flights were operated in and out of Mansfield during April. Passenger total was 365 persons both coming and going 2 200 pounds of mail, 11 000 pounds of air express, and 15 000 pounds air freight

Tonney Opens Two-County Health Center

Dr. Fred O Tonney, former city-county health commissioner, is putting into practice in Illinois some of the health suggestions he made while head of the Mansfield-Richland county department

In a letter sent to Mansfield friends, Dr. Tonney tells of some of his work in his new position as medical director of the Shelby-Effingham Bi-county health department, which serves two Illinois counties with a combined population of 48,000 persons

"We have set up both county offices," he wrote, "and I expect to have a full staff employed by July 1. The school health and 'summer roundup' programs are underway."

Before Dr Tonney became director of the bi-county department, with headquarters in Shelbyville, general health services in the area were under direction of the Illinois state health department.

Dr. Tonney said that in addition to establishing the health center, he had started communicable disease control maternal infant and child health activities and school health services

Long-Range Policy Termed Important

Marshall Backs Reciprocal Trade Act

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall Saturday described the reciprocal trade agreements act, which expires June 12, as "the most important single factor in our long-range economic policy."

But Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the Republican policy committee in the Senate, declared in favor of a one-year extension of the trade law instead of the three years favored by the administration.

Marshall, in a statement on world trade week opening today, coupled the trade act with European recovery program as "chief elements" of this country's effort to stimulate world production and lower trade barriers.

"Our security as well as our prosperity is bound up in the ebb and flow of world trade," the secretary said.

A one-year extension bill, with limitations on President Truman's power to cut tariffs, is expected to reach the House floor for debate next week. Mr. Truman and Secretary Marshall have asked that Congress preserve the government's present freedom to negotiate tariff changes.

"A retreat to the practices of economic nationalism could drive the world into another resort to economic warfare that would prove fatal to the peace," Marshall's statement said.

"The future of mankind will depend to an important degree on how well society is able to satisfy the basic requirements of the people of the earth for food, shelter and the other necessities of life," he went on

"The fullest possible development of world trade, with a minimum of restrictions and a maximum of opportunity for all, is necessary."

Senator Taft gave his position on the trade act to reporters. He said he does "not favor the three-year extension."

The law now gives the President too much authority to raise or lower tariffs, said Taft, a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Czechs Get Baltic Port

WARSAW— (AP) —Landlocked Czechoslovakia got an outlet to the Baltic sea today.

Poland formally handed over to the Czechs a large slice of the Oder river port of Czczecin (Stettin) as a cusoms duty free zone for imports and exports. The area includes the Ewa peninsula and a strip of land along the Debicki canal

The action means Czechoslovakia will look exclusively to Poland's Baltic ports for her sea trade and will abandon any thought of using the German port of Hamburg as before the war

Better Hedges Street Bus Service Promised

Council Due To Approve Franchise

Burghard to Fight 15-Year Renewal

Improved service over the Hedges street route will be given by Mansfield Rapid Transit company if council approves, as expected, Wednesday the company's request for a 15-year renewal of its franchise.

Council's indicated intention to renew the franchise probably will run into opposition, however, from Walter L. Burghard jr., owner of the Yellow Stripe Cab company

He said he would strive to induce council to delay renewal of the franchise to win more time to perfect his own, still tentative, plans to submit a competitive bid.

I'm going to protest vigorously," he told The News-Journal yesterday. "There's no reason that the renewal should be granted at this time because their present franchise will be in effect until 1952.

"I've been surveying the field to see if I can obtain buses, the needed capital and a site for a garage and I'll be able to make the city a better offer within the next year.

"I feel that I can give the city better service than it is getting at the present."

15-YEAR PLAN

Meanwhile, Nelson Swihart, chairman of the city council utilities committee, said his committee believed the time was opportune for renewing the company's franchise.

Mansfield Rapid Transit officials have asked that the franchise be renewed now instead of in 1952, its expiration date, so that the company may start work on a new bus garage. The old one was destroyed by a $200,000 fire last November.

Company officials said they did not want to spend the money to build a new garage unless they were assured that they would be allowed to operate in the city for the next 15 years.

"We (the utilities committee) have studied the matter very carefully," Swihart reported, "and are of the opinion that we have obtained the best possible contract with the Mansfield Rapid Transit company to secure for the citizens of the city the most adequate service."

CHANGES LIKELY

The new franchise will embody several changes from the one now in effect. It provides that the bus company shall pay the city $100 a year per regular route rather than $25 as at present.

This means that the city's income from this source would be upped from $325 to $1,300 annually.

The new franchise also stipulates that the company shall establish full-time bus service on the Hedges street route. Under the old document, the Hedges street bus ceased operations at 6:40 p. m. daily and did not run on Sundays and holidays.

SERVICE TO 11:30 P. M.

If the new franchise is granted, the Hedges line will get service at half-hour intervals from 7 to 11:30 p. m. and on the half-hour on Sundays and holidays as is the case on the other runs.

The maximum fare will remain 10 cents, with the company having the option to change the cost of tokens as it sees fit.

Swihart also revealed that the company has agreed to meet with the traffic committee of the council to negotiate for the erection of bus stop signs at all points in the city where the buses stop.

"This is not incorporated in the new franchise," he said, "but company officials have assured us they will buy the signs and have them installed in cooperation with the local police department."

Earth Slips On Its Axis

BERKELEY, Calif. —(AP)— The earth's core may be revolving faster than its crust, acting something like a slipping automobile clutch, a University of California geophysicist, said Saturday.

This may explain, Dr. L. B. Slichter said, why earthly rotation is slowing down. It loses one revolution every 7,000 years.

Existing records of earthquakes might show a difference between core and crust rotation, Dr. Slichter said.

The slowing down of the crust rotation, which has been demonstrated scientifically, is due to the friction action of tides.

The crust extends about 200 miles below the surface. Below that is the core, which is supposed to be hot and more or less fluid.

Germans to Get Boost In Ration

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The food ration for Germans in the five divisions of the Anglo-American zone will be boosted again in June.

The bipartite control office announced that normal consumers in Wuerttenberg-Baden, Hesse, Bremen, Hamburg and the Ruhr will receive 1,655 cadories per day under the new schedule. They are getting 1,593.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Ohio river division engineers Saturday announced plans for construction of a multi-section flood wall which, they said, will serve as a "proving ground" for flood wall designs of the future.

Loyalty Bill Gets Vetoed

President Terms Measure 'Unwise'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman today vetoed as "unnecessary and unwise" a bill providing for an FBI loyalty check on persons he appoints to the Atomic Energy commission.

He called the legislation "an unwarranted encroachment of the legislative upon the executive branch."

Senator Knowland (R-Calif), sponsor of the bill, said he would ask the Senate to override the president. By vetoing the measure, he said, Mr. Truman has lowered an "iron curtain" on the information the Senate ought to have.

The bill passed the Senate April 12 on a voice vote. The House approved it May 3 by unanimous action. A two-thirds majority in both houses is necessary to make a bill law over the President's veto.

Under present law, FBI investigations are required of all atomic energy commission employes who are not subject to Senate confirmation.

The Knowland bill would have authorized the Senate section of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy to direct the Federal Bureau of Investigation to inquire into the "character, associations and loyalty" of persons appointed to the commission. Knowland said congress—particularly the Senate is entitled to all available information on such key officials.

But President Truman said:

"The complete independence of the executive branch renders it imperative that the executive have sole authority over the officers whom he appoints."

He also questioned the constitutionality of the measure.

The President said he fully recognizes his obligation to obtain the facts about every person he nominates to serve on the commission. He pledged that every facility of the executive branch, including the FBI, will be used to obtain those facts.

Ohio Car Dealers Robbed of $6,500

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Stickup men Saturday took $6,500 from two Youngstown, O., used-car dealers after luring them to an east end apartment with an offer to sell their automobiles.

Edward Thompson, 32, and his brother, Albert, 35, told police that as soon as they were admitted to the apartment, a man, wearing a towel over the lower part of his face, pointed a revolver at them.

They said an accomplice quickly bound them with twine and took the money. Then the two holdup men left.

OHIO FAMILY HONORED

Up and Down the Street . . .

ACTION OVERHEAD—

Mansfielders bent over backwards with their eyes turned skyward yesterday afternoon as six planes of the 321st Air Bombardment group (Reserve) flew back and forth ovr the city. The planes, based at the municipal airport, spent part of the afternoon flying over Crestline where the Veterans of Foreign Wars are holding their 15th district spring convention

Today seven cabin planes from the 321st will join with 25 Navy planes in mass flights over Crestline as part of "I Am an American Day" ceremonies. The locally-based planes will drop recruiting pamphlets and small parachutes which will win the finders prizes to be donated by Crestlie merchants.

The residents of 82½ West Fourth street kindly calling to the attention of The News-Journal an error in Friday's paper. An item reporting that Harold E. Gallagher was fined $10 and costs and given a five-day suspended jail sentence after he struck a horn-blowing motorist, erroneously listed his address as 82½ West Fourth street. The address should have appeared as 82½ West Fifth street.

Speedy Planes Mark Air Mail Anniversary

NEW YORK—(AP)—The mail went through yesterday from Washington to New York and vice versa in a little over 27 minutes.

Two jet-propelled P-80 Shootingstars finished the two-way trip in a dead heat to celebrate the 30th anniversary air mail service.

Lt. Col. Jacob W. Dixon of Lexington, Mo., commander of the 334th Fighter squadron, landed his jet plane at Idlewild airport here just 27 minutes and 30 seconds after he took off from Washington national airport at 3 p. m.

At the same time Capt. Vermont Garrison of Somerset, Ky., was landing in Washington after his flight from Idlewild, airport officials said.

The planes averaged 480 miles an hour for the 220-mile trip.

Richland GOP Committee Spends $256 to Aid Taft

The Richland county Republican Executive committee spent $256 on behalf of Senator Robert A. Taft in the primary battle for delegates an expenditures report filed with the election board showed yesterday. Deputy Sheriff Harold L. Marvin reported spending $217 in his unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. The Marvin-for-Sheriff committee listed expenses at $31.

John C. Friday, who won one of the two Republican nominations for county commissioner, reported spending $83

His son, Edward R. Friday, listed expenditures of $23 in his uncontested campaign for the Republican nomination for clerk of courts.

Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning, Democrat, reported spending $12 in obtaining renomination for that office

Prosecutor Theodore Lutz, Republican, listed expenses of $14. County Recorder D. D. Orewiler, Democrat, reported no expenditures. C. H. Hebel, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for county commissioner, listed expenses at $17.

The following reported no expenditures: Coroner Dr. D. C. Lavender, Republican; Harold E. Pierce, alternate, and Allen Martin, delegate to the Democratic national convention; and Earl A. McFarland and Raymond D. Marchant, alternates to the Republican national convention.

None of the nominees reported receiving any contributions.

Plane Carries Own Runway

NEW YORK —(AP)— A plane that carries its own runway and can land on unprepared fields was demonstrated for the first time publicly Saturday.

The "Flying Runway," a track-type landing gear in which an endless rubber belt replaces wheels, was exhibited at Idlewild airport.

A 27-ton Fairchild C-82 packet taxied, took off and landed during the tests. Officials said the weight or "footprint" of a plane is reduced from 60 pounds per square inch to 20 pounds by the new gear.

A 19-inch-wide reinforced rubber belt replaces the plane's main wheels, and the nose wheel is replaced by a 14-inch track.

Former Scout Head Stricken

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(AP)—Dr. James E. West, former chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, died last night. He would have been 72 today.

Dr. West, a native of Washington, D. C., had been Chief Scout executive for 32 years when he retired in 1943. He later was elected Chief Scout. During his tenure as Chief Scout executive, an estimated 10,000,000 boys and men had joined the organization.

A crippled orphan in his childhood, Dr. West took part in many programs to aid children. For this reason he was chosen as Chief Executive when the national Boy Scout movement was organized in 1910. A year later he became Chief Scout Executive.

Dewey Buys Dog; Stassen Gives Post

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. — (AP) — When Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's bus struck a dog recently, he bought a new one for its owners.

His rival, Harold E. Stassen, got into a logging truck here Saturday that promptly struck and bent a lamp post. Stassen said he would buy the city a new one.

Dewey's dog is at Salem, Ore., about 60 miles from Stassen's lamp post.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Courage Is the Father of Israel

AFTER two thousand years the state of Israel has been reborn. Through no assistance from a friendly world, but by the courage, skill, and dogged perseverance of its own people the new nation has risen to proclaim the right of the Jews "to a life of dignity, freedom, and labor."

This historic people has been hounded from its homes for 20 centuries. It has been driven into ghettos, its families have been divided and slaughtered by Hitler and by the gruesome sadists of earlier times.

When, at last, the Jews embarked upon their determined effort to recreate a homeland in Palestine the world marvelled at what was accomplished in such cities as Tel Aviv, in the fine villages, and new farms. Yet this same world remained cool to the effort. The British, who held a mandate over Palestine, were less than helpful.

More recently the United States called for partition to give the Jews and Arabs separate holdings, then backed out on its agreement. The United Nations remained powerless, yet Secretary of State Marshall had the effrontery to tell the Jews to wait until the U.N. could act before forming their nation. They did not wait. For too many centuries they have had to get what they could by their own strength and wit. They organized an army to prepare for any eventuality and proclaimed their freedom.

In a remarkable about-face President Truman immediately recognized the new state. Whatever brought on his change of heart, the move will certainly be applauded by most Americans who recall that our own nation was conceived in battle and struggled long for world recognition—which finally came only when we, too, proved that we were masters of our own destiny.

In ancient Israel the Bible was written and given to the world. In modern Israel there is a lesson for all peoples including those who are trying to make the United Nations work. Simply put, the lesson is that faith, courage and determination alone will insure to mankind the right to dignity, freedom, and useful labor.

More Good Apples Than Bad

BECAUSE there is occasional incompetence and chicanery in positions of public trust, this newspaper feels constrained to keep a watchful eye open to the general community interest and report critically what seems to be amiss. That is part of the job of any newspaper worth the name.

However, it should be remembered that by and large our criticisms are occasioned by the exception rather than the rule among public servants. By far the great majority of men and women who serve Mansfield and Richland county are conscientious and able. They take their tasks seriously. And they, too, have a watchful eye out for the public good.

Since there are so many of these good officials and since they do a good job as a matter of routine, it is difficult to single them out for commendation except under unusual circumstances. It is a compliment to them, however, and a reassurance to the general citizen that most of the day-to-day business of city and county moves along smoothly and progressively.

The almost universal feeling that "Mansfield is a good town to live in" speaks well not only for public officials but for civic organizations, churches, schools, and the general standard of social behavior.

Indeed, it is the occasional incompetent, who acts with no vision other than selfish interest, whose conduct makes the conduct of others so much appreciated. It is not hard to find one or two bad apples in a whole basket of good ones.

The News-Journal does not hesitate to point out whatever it sincerely believes to be deficiencies or errors. Conversely, we are proud to be serving a community in whose people, business, industry and civic growth all of us can take a justifiable pride.

Two Independent Parties Succeed

A SUCCESSFUL new party can be organized and kept going. Kansas City has just shown this again. There the Non-Partisan Citizens Association, which in 1940 overthrew the Pendergast machine, has not only stayed in power ever since but has just won another sweeping victory.

Examples like this are admittedly few and far between. Cincinnati's Charter Party in 1924 put through a city-manager form of government, and governed the city for a dozen years afterward. Then the old gang came back for a few terms. Last fall, however, saw the return to power of the Charterites.

The formula for a successful party, independent of the existing organization, is the same for Cincinnati, Kansas City and elsewhere, and for any new national party. It is hard work, not merely at election time but the year round, keeping track of voters, their moves, changes of occupation and important family events, seeing that they remain well disposed to the independent movement, and winning over opponents.

Most so-called good citizens simply do not take all this trouble. That is why they get the bad government they grumble about. In Cincinnati and Kansas City they do take the trouble, and many of them are finding it fun.

Claude Callan reveals: "When we told our banker that good joke he didn't laugh half so heartily as we did the next week when he told it back to us."

Harry Wade raises the arithmetical question: "If a film cutie is the better half for the fourth time, what's the fraction?"

Most people who want their youth back, want it only on condition they could spend it differently.

U. S. Economy Needs Smart Handling

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

THIS is a column about economics, but don't let that frighten you. Economics is a much more simple affair than many economists, especially the New Deal variety, have led us to believe.

Its basic laws are essentially simple. Their operations are based upon such obvious facts as supply and demand, needs, markets, production costs distribution, etc., much more than upon the fluctuations of the stock markets, manipulation of money, artificial tariffs, artificially-pegged currencies and many of the other elements, dodges and trickeries which have come to play too great a part in the desperate writhing of a despairing world to dodge the facts of life or to hornswoggle whole nations and peoples.

One of the facts which become more evident every day is that we shall never see again the hundred-cent dollar of 1930. We have, as of today, a 40 or 50-cent dollar in comparison with 1930, and we may see a dollar still less by the same standards of comparison.

The second fact is that our present enormously expensive federal government, with its millions of employees, could not be operated today on the hundred-cent dollar of 1930. Even a slight deflation would mean enormous treasury deficits almost at once, for the high government income from taxes from all sorts is based upon percentage rates and not upon the amount of goods and services changing hands. The income is based upon the high cost of these things: the declining purchasing power of the dollar; and the vastly increased number of dollars necessarily in circulation to meet the high costs of commodities and services.

In other words, sudden or violent deflation or a considerable depression would quickly curtail violently the present huge income and bring disaster and possible bankruptcy to the government itself.

I have lived with these things in at least two countries Germany and France. In one, inflation reached a point where rising prices, vast increases in the currency in circulation and the declining purchasing power of the Mark reached a point where the currency and government bonds became utterly worthless, all currency was repudiated and the nation in bankruptcy had to begin all over again.

The result was complete disaster for which the middle class, and indeed for all elements of the nation, save for crooks and speculators. Out of this came Hitler totalitarian government.

* * *

Same Fate For France.

France came close to the same disaster when in 1927 the government called in all gold, violently deflated her currency, ruined the middle class, disrupted all business and export trade and brought in the disastrous popular front government and gave great aid to the communists who are plaguing her today.

At the present time, this nation is poised precariously somewhere between an inflation, which could in the end bring about a possible bankruptcy and repudiation and eventual violent deflation, which would be equally disastrous.

It is not increditable that either disaster would become a reality and neither disaster will be prevented by government controls but only by wise and experienced management of production, of export, of general expenses, of taxes—indeed of all the basic economic realities. Government controls are merely the first stage in the dodges and tricks of a government in financial and economic difficulties and are essentially superficial and futile as a dam against economic and eventually political disaster. That is where petty and limited minds of Mr. Truman and his advisors come in.

There are great victories in a Cold War as well as in a fighting war and Soviet Russia is in the process of winning a truly great Cold War victory. She has not yet won it. The crucial point is still ahead, but, with Machiavellian tactics and a war of nerves, she is forcing us into tactics through vast relief to the world and higher and higher defense expenditures and taxes to a point where either impossible inflation or any sudden deflation would wreck the whole of our economic structure—and with it, the economic structure of all the world outside the Soviet Russian zone.

In real fact, there is only one currency in the world and that is the American dollar. The values of other currencies and the economic existence of other nations (outside of Russia) are dependent upon the inflation or deflation of the dollar.

Great Britain borrowed nearly four billions of dollars from us to last five years. It was gone within a little more than a year and almost a quarter of it was swallowed up by theh increasing dollar costs of every commodity she bought in this country. Not even the New Deal economists deny that each time a tractor or a ton of wheat is sent out of this country, the already high prices are maintained or forced upward. Add to this, 17 billions of new armament expenditures with the accompanying boom and shortages and increased money in circulation, and where do we arrive?

It is a little frightening to think about, especially since the average citizen nearly always mistakes the sizes of rising inflation—high costs, high wages and shortage of labor—as signs of prosperity.

I do not believe Russia wants or could possibly afford a fighting war, but perhaps she knows that she does not need a fighting war because, aided by wholesale speeches, armed forces brass hats, dogooders, and just plain ignoramuses, she is already winning the most important battle of all, hot or cold. If one economy collapses through violent inflation or deflation, the economy of the world collapses with it and there will be no more Democracy and no more free enterprise.

We are taking a vast gamble and we had better play the cards close to the chest with the greatest wisdom and skill.

Timely Editorial

You Can't Keep 'Em Down.

Nearly three years after the close of the war the government pay rolls are still booming, and getting the jobholder total down to a peacetime basis is an endless if not impossible task. There was hope for a while. The military agencies demobilized their big war time civilian ranks to a point that made the entire showing look better. But while this was going on the nonmilitary agencies were zealously enlarging their totals.

The result is that today the civilian employes of the government number more than 2 million, whereas the new deal at the height of its spending before the war had been able to perform with less than 1 million. A few years before, at the start of the new deal, the total was only about 500,000.—Kansas City Star.

Russia Might Be Creating 'Lull'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Backstage in Moscow: For many months, Ambassador "Beetle" Smith hasn't been able to see Molotov. Up until the famous note he delivered May 4, he was given the run-around, only allowed to talk to a 27-year-old diplomat who heads the American desk of the Soviet foreign office . . . No. 1 mystery in Moscow: Why did Ambassador Smith go fishing in France immediately after his talks with Molotov? Answer: He merely wanted to fish, has his own plane in which to go fishing. Hitherto things had been so dull in Moscow, he didn't think it made any difference.

Lull before the storm? — For about three weeks Moscow's belligerency has lulled. The radio has calmed down. Pressure has eased off against Austria, Scandinavia and the Allies in Germany . . . This can mean a lot or nothing . . . It took several months after announcement of the Truman doctrine for Greece for the Soviet to occupy Hungary. Undoubtedly Hungary was their answer to us in Greece . . . Undoubtedly also Czechoslovakia was one answer to the Marshall Plan . . . From a dictatorship, you can always expect retaliation. Dictators don't have to consult their people . . . However, the Kremlin did seem to be worried about the American people, feared we were too aroused, too angry, too willing to vote a big air force plus peacetime conscription.

PEARSON

Russia has the A-bomb — Definite information has been obtained (how cannot be told) that Russia has the A-bomb. It's crude, and only one or two have been made yet, but she has it . . . That's why top U. S. defense chiefs were in such a frenzy to get us prepared last winter. That's also why U. S. defense chiefs have figured Russia might strike most any time—before the Marshall Plan has a chance to win Western Europe away from Russia completely.

* * *

Who Wrote the Note?

Three schools of thought contributed to the reverberating note Ambassador Smith handed Molotov the other day.

School No. 1 was the U. S. military. They wanted the Russians to have a blunt, stiff warning, laid right on the line, that if the Red army became the aggressor in Europe, it meant war with the USA.

Historians have argued that if the Kaiser knew the invasion of Belgium meant war with England he would not have invaded; that if Hitler had known the invasion of Poland meant war with both England and the United States he would not have moved. Therefore, U. S. defense chiefs wanted the Russians to have it in cold words which they could understand—that we would resist with arms any act of aggression.

School No. 2 was the politicians. They had their eye on Henry Wallace, MacArthur and the accusations that Truman was a warmonger. MacArthur has been saying that we need a President who could sit down and talk turkey with Stalin. This was resented around the white House and probably was one reason for Truman's denial — through Senator Tydings — that he ever had an invitation to meet with Stalin.

Actually, he had. The parley proposal came via Berlin and suggested a meeting in Stockholm. Truman, however, said no. Later when Walter Winchell, calling at the White House, urged Truman to get together with Stalin, the President replied: "I don't lick anybody's boots." Nevertheless, some of the men around Truman have felt he should make an overture to Stalin.

School No. 3 was the genuine peacemakers. Some state department diplomats have sincerely believed in the Jimmie Byrnes theory of keeping up diplomatic talks even while we build up defenses; of displaying both the olive branch and the mailed fist—so Russia could not claim she had only one alternative.

Alarmed over Russian propaganda in Europe, they also considered it wise to show western Europe that we weren't warmongers, were willing to keep trying to adjust our differences.

Result of all this was a polyglot note that meant little. It carried the implied threat of war if the Red army moved. It also carried an implied invitation to discuss our difficulties. Finally it went into a long tabulation of Russia's errors—which, though true, only gave Molotov a marvelous excuse to come back with a long recitation of our alleged errors.

In brief, the note to Molotov had just about everything in it except the most important thing of all—namely, the fact that there is great longing in the hearts of the American people for peace, to exchange books and newspapers, professors and students, churchmen and religious teaching, radio programs and moving pictures, then the people of the two countries would solve all their own problems through friendship, and the petty squabbling over who was right or wrong in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Italy would become as unimportant as the ancient debate of how many angels can stand on the point of a needle.

Such a note should have been made public immediately—by us. Furthermore millions of copies should have been dropped in every language of Europe, over every country of Europe, to show the American people's genuine desire for peace.

* * *

Open Diplomacy.

Most amusing incident re the Molotov mess was state department wailing over the fact that Molotov made the correspondent public. He had violated confidence, moaned the diplomats. However, good diplomacy is (1) the art of writing notes that react to your advantage if made public; and 2) making them public yourself.

If I could collect a dollar for every time the state department itself jumped the gun on publication of a note, I'd make money.

For instance, we had a firm agreement with the British that we would send no notes or statements re Palestine without consulting the British; following which Truman released a statement on Palestine on the eve of a Jewish holiday which had the British turning somersaults.

Time after time when Secretaries Frank B. Kellogg or Henry L. Stimson wanted to mobilize public opinion against Japan in Manchuria, against Mexico re the oil dispute or for the outlawry-of-war pact, they made diplomatic notes public for all the world to read.

Diplomacy is partly the art of mobilizing public opinion, and Molotov saw a chance to mobilize it at the expense of our diplomatic bunglers. That's why the state department wrung its hands.

Railroad Lobby Wins

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—They do these things around here in the shank of the evening—and quick.

Reference is to the way the House, bowing before a great industry and its highly financed lobby, whisked through in exactly three hours and five minutes by the clock the so-called Bulwinkle-Reed bill to exempt the railroads from the anti-trust laws and set up a sort of private government in the Association of American Railroads.

Only two hours were allotted for debate, a rather short period for a measure that affects our economy, including the often forgotten consumer, as have few bills in recent years. The House passed the same measure two years ago in the same way, taking a couple of hours of an afternoon. That provoked a great outcry from those conscious of its threat to the public. But the great private interests behind this and other similar measures have become emboldened meanwhile, and apparently so have those who represent them in this Congress. They are getting hard-boiled.

It was, in fact, a rather bad day in the House for the public.

For, just before it took up the railroad bill, that legislative body voted to prevent further expansion of TVA to meet power needs of household consumers, farmers and industries, including important national defense industries, in the Tennessee Valley. It rejected an amendment to the Governor corporations appropriation bill that would have provided $4,000,000, requested by President Truman, to start work on another steam plant to produce additional power.

That was a big victory for the private utility lobby now set up here under direction of Purcell L. Smith, president of the Association of Electric Companies, who gets $65,000 a year and, judging from results, is worth every cent of it to his employers. This was the first outstanding triumph of the utilities in their campaign along a wide front in this congress to check further expansion of public power.

Ultimately, if successful, it will reach into other areas, as was manifest by the support for TVA from other sections where there are great public power projects, and all at the expense of the lowly consumer who doesn't have any $65,000-a-year men working for him.

The vote was 152 for the amendment, 192 against.

But fewer still stood up against the railroad lobby. It was the same familiar corporal's guard—53 this time—that has been standing firm, though in vain, against successive raids in this Congress by monopolistic interests. They were overwhelmed by 271 votes for the measure.

The Bulwinkle-Reed bill now has been approved by both branches of this congress. The Senate passed it earlier this session. It failed there in the last Congress, after the House had approved it, getting caught without action toward the end of the session. The only hope to kill it now lies in one man, President Truman. He is expected to veto it.

He is thoroughly familiar with its purposes from his long experience with railroad matters as a senator on the interstate commerce committee. Whether his veto will stand up remains to be seen. There were enough votes to over-ride a veto in both branches in its passage in this Congress.

* * *

EXPOSED LOBBYING

As chairman of an interstate commerce subcommittee that exhaustively investigated railroads, their financing and lobbying activities, Mr. Truman exposed lobbying tactics which also were referred to during house debate this week by Rep. Ed Gossett (D., Tex.). The latter said supporters of the measure spent a million dollars in their campaign on its behalf. He described how "they have gone up and down the land getting resolutions passed by chambers of commerce."

Another technique, revealed here some months ago from records of the Association of American Railroads, was to enlist important men back home influential with members of congress to bring pressure upon them. That is especially effective in an election year.

During House debate it was also pointed out how exemption of rail roads from anti-trust laws will be an open invitation to other great industries to seek the same exemption, and it was explained how this bill, if it becomes law, will stop two pending anti-trust suits, one brought by the state of Georgia against the Pennsylvania and other railroads, now pending before a supreme master, and another brought by the justice department against western roads.

This measure is much bigger than merely a railroad bill, affecting allied interests. It has been demonstrated in government testimony and suits how other great industries, including oil and cement, join with the railroads to fix transportation costs for the purpose, according to Wendell Berge, former chief of the justice department's anti-trust division, of maintaining "the industrial status quo and to prevent a new enterprise from competing with the industrial monopolies."

In brief, the old monopolistic "freeze-out" that raises and keeps up prices of all sorts of things that all of us have to buy.

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

WELL, Andrei Gromyko is taking another walk from the United Nations—this time by request of his boss. Since the famous walker-outer was a tough exponent of Soviet policy, there may be some who will interpret the move as further softening of the Russian attitude toward the democracies.

* * *

But, two other possible reasons seem to make more sense. One is that Gromyko's removal is part of a conciliatory smoke screen the Russians are putting up to shield further expansion either in Europe or the orient.

* * *

The second possible reason is that Moscow just doesn't want any Russians to remain in contact too long with countries where there is freedom of thought. It's very embarrassing to have their envoys decide they'd rather make nasty capitalistic money by writing their memoirs than keep on living in hourly dread of the secret police.

Speaking of Your Health

Don't Neglect a Cough

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NOWADAYS, when so many people smoke, there is a tendency to regard every cough as simply due to too many cigarets. This is a bad thought because it often means neglect of coughing which signals some really serious disorder.

There are many different types of coughing and these are so distinctive that years ago, when modern methods of diagnosis were not available, doctors relied heavily on the mere sound of the cough to tell them what was wrong.

For example, a brassy cough indicates swelling of the aorta, the great artery coming from the heart. Its enlargement causes pressure on the windpipe and this, in turn, stimulates the coughing attacks.

Croupy Cough.

A croupy cough is commonly associated with conditions which produce swellings of the larynx or voicebox.

Coughing, in attacks, may mean whooping cough or some other condition which produces an excessive amount of secretion in the windpipe and the tubes in the lungs known as the bronchi.

A dry cough, on the other hand, means, as a rule, that an excessive amount of secretion is not present. Tumor or cancer of the lungs frequently produces a cough of this type.

Cause Must Be Found.

Since coughing is only a symptom, it cannot be treated properly until the cause is found. It is often one of the important signs in the common everyday infections of the respiratory tract. It is nearly always present in tuberculosis of the lung, lung abcess and pneumonia, and we all must remember that serious lung tumors also cause coughing.

It is true as I said earlier, that coughing is common among excessive smokers but it is never safe to assume that a persistent cough is due to this cause alone.

Hence, when a patient who smokes complains of coughing, there is need for a thorough study to determine if the coughing is due to the smoking or to some other disturbance.

Smoker's cough usually occurs in the morning, though it may be present throughout the day. It is often accompanied by gagging because of the thick secretions present in the throat.

A cough should never be neglected. As a rule, its cause may be easily found but, in any event, successful treatment depends on finding the cause and removing it.

U. S., Reds Both Desire Peace Talks

Officials Hope to End Cold War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON – (AP) —American officials have begun to re-examine the week's "peace contest" with the Soviet Union to determine whether it offers real hope of easing the conflicts of the cold war.

There is belief — and hope — that Generalissimo Stalin and the other men who run the Kremlin are doing the same thing.

Some of the capital's most experienced diplomatic officials say that if there is any substantial basis for beginning to talk to the Russians again on critical issues this is the time that it will be discovered and explored.

Much of the public hullaballoo which began last Monday night has merely served to obscure the real problems. Practically all of the statements issued here were designed to get those problems into focus again.

The end result is that the door to peace in the cold war, which Ambassador W. B. Smith and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov opened so gingerly, is still open. Some American diplomats are convinced that before it is closed again, or possibly opened further, further moves must be made.

That is about the most that can be said at the moment for the small amount of optimism still left over from the wave of excitement with which the world greeted the Soviet announcement of Monday night that the Kremlin had "accepted" an American "proposal" to discuss and settle outstanding difficulties.

The fact that the Russions made the public announcement and that the United States contended no such proposal had in fact been made turned secret diplomatic negotiations into a world wide contest betwen the Soviet Union and the United States over the issue of peace.

It was probably inevitable that this should happen since every subject of common concern which they have sought to discuss for the past two and a half years has become increasingly an issue of public propaganda and debate.

The record on this point goes all the way back to the slow and painful breakdown of negotiations which the United States and Britain conducted with the Soviet Union over the "democratic" reorganization of the government of Poland

The particular arguments of that case have long since ceased to have great importance; the result, however, gave the communists control of the Polish nation.

Poland was the beginning of the down-hill road between east and west, for essentially the dispute has been one of power and political control and as it progressed from country to country as the United States and Britain lost one position after another in eastern Europe, as the iron curtain rolled down across Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, the resentments of the west have steadily mounted, faith in Russian promises has crumbled and fears of soviet-communist ambitions have swollen.

U. S. Citizen To Succeed Maximus V

Athenagoras Slated As Spiritual Ruler

NEW YORK —(AP)— The next Patriarch of Constantinople, spiritual ruler of 170 million members of the Orthodox Eastern church, probably will be an American citizen.

Athenagoras, 62-year-old archbishop of the Greek Orthodox Catholic Eastern church in North and South America, is the man. He alone has been mentioned in recent news dispatches as the likely choice to succeed aged Patriarch Maximus V, who is considering retirement.

If and when Archbishop Athenagoras succeeds to the ancient patrirchate, which goes back more than 1,000 years, he will be the first American to head this international faith. The Patriarch of Constantinople—the former name of Istanbul—corresponds approximately with the Pope of the Roman Catholic church.

Meanwhile, the deep-eyed Athenagoras brushes off non-committally the suggestion he may soon leave his adopted land to return in honor to Turkey, the country in which he was born.

Tall, with long hair and a graying beard, the archbishop in his impressive flowing black robes looks every inch the mystic Eastern priest. He talks with a heavy accent of Americanism, democracy and the wonders of being a United States citizen. He received his final papers in 1938—exactly seven years after he was made archbishop.

INDEPENDENT UNITS

"In America there are five million members of the Orthodox Eastern church," he said, "Russian, Serbian, Romanian, Bulgarian, Syrian, Albanian and Greek. There are about a million of the Greek Orthodox church here."

Each national group of the Eastern church is an independent unit, ruled by its own patriarch, but there is a complicated sort of unity among the various branches. The Patriarch of Constantinople is the most exalted and influential priest of the whole Eastern church.

"There is no corner of America I have not visited," the archbishop said, "And since I have traveled I realize that America has a real Democratic spirit, a real democracy, and that America is called upon for a great mission.

"I preach Americanism. From place to place, week days and Sundays, any place, every opportunity, I talk of Americanism, turning strongly to the White House, the congress, American ideals and tradition.

"Now the great hour of America has come and the heavenly bell is ringing. It is opening a door for the future for centuries. Americanism is a common, general unselfish peace, with justice and with happiness for all mankind, for all nations."

Athenagoras was born in 1886, of Greek parents who had lived long in Turkey. He studied at the Theological school in Istanbul and later was appointed a deacon and secretary of an archbishop.

He served, still in the dual capacity, in Yugoslavia during the World War I years. "I lived with all the armies in the Balkans, English, French and American—I know war."

The last 18 years have been among the busiest of his life. Under his leadership, the Greek Orthodox church in the Americas has expanded vastly. There are more than 300 churches spread through the countries, with big active congregations, in the population centers like Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington. Headquarters for the archdiocese and the cathedral church are in New York City.

Sidelight on the Gangster Era

Al Capone Once Planned Autobiography

By CHARLES HONCE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Al Capone once toyed with the idea of literature—the production of his autobiography (ghost written, of course).

This yen to get his name on a book was not because of any love for beautiful letters and only partly for possible whitewashing purposes. The real incentive was money. He had the curious idea there would be millions in it.

His selected ghost writer tried to dissuade his mind of this fallacy. The project finally went on the rocks because Capone wouldn't "give." As his ghost probed the gangster's history with pointed questions, Capone replied time after time with this curious remark, "No, I couldn't say that. It wouldn't be fair to my people."

This little sidelight on the gangster era in Chicago occurred back in the roaring twenties. The teller of the story is Howard Vincent O'Brien. It appears in a posthumous book "All Things Considered" (Bobbs-Merrill).

O'Brien, novelist, bookman and long-time columnist for the Chicago Daily News, died in September 1947. He had been working on a manuscript of an autobiographical nature. The present book is made up of this material together with selections from his widely-read column in the News.

O'Brien's introduction to Capone was real cloak and dagger stuff. First he received a telephone call that Capone considered him the best man to do the autobiography. Next there was a meeting with another emissary in the lobby of a South Michigan avenue hotel: "Exactly on stroke of one a young man appeared. He was straight out a gangster movie, impeccably dressed and with the inevitable pearl-grey hat. He moved his head in the faintest suggestion of a nod."

PALATIAL OFFICE SUITE

That nod carried the party to a third floor suite. A sliding panel in the door opened slowly and a dark face looked out. The guide gave some sort of signal and the door opened.

"We were taken directly into Capone's sanctum," O'Brien says. "This resembled the office of a corporation executive. Filing cases lined the walls and there was a big desk in the bay window. Capone, as starched and pressed as a fashion plate, wearing a double-breasted brown suit, rose to greet us. He was heavily built, with an obvious tendency to fat. His manner was suave, his voice gently modulated.

"The first thing that caught my eye was the pictures on the wall behind him. One was a steel engraving of George Washington; another was a steel engraving of Abraham Lincoln. And between the two was a drawing of Capone himself wearing knickerbockers and holding a golf club."

After a discussion of how to play a niblick shot the talk turned to the projected autobiography. Capone "expressed his resentment at the cruel and unkind things which had been said about him."

O'Brien said he was excited by the prospect. "It seemed to me," he wrote, "that if this book were what I thought it might be made into, it would be perhaps the most significant contribution to current history that could possibly be written."

Further discussion, however, gave O'Brien a feeling of doubt about the outcome. To O'Brien's questions Capone delivered his "I couldn't say that" answer.

EXPECTED 'MILLIONS'

Additionally, "Capone had some rather exaggerated ideas as to the importance financially of the book he was to produce. He spoke lightly of millions. I pointed out that few books made millions for their authors, to which he replied blandly that there never had been a book such as this one would be."

O'Brien discussed the project with a magazine editor and they both came to the conclusion that what Capone "really wanted was not a revelation but a monument." The project thus died, helped by the fact that Capone "had more serious matters to attend to. He was indicted for evasion of his income tax and tried and sentenced to eight years in a federal penitentiary."

(The actual sentence was 11 years, of which he served seven years and six months. Capone died Jan. 25, 1947).

Also, O'Brien began to grow uneasy because it seemed to him "that the glances of Capone's entourage, the young man in pearl-gray hats and shoulder holsters, seemed to be looking at me with growing suspicion. Obviously I was learning a great deal more than was perhaps good for my health."

O'Brien wasn't relieved a bit when Capone said to him one day:

"You know, sometimes, I lose my temper and I say, 'Gee, I wish somebody would bump that guy off,' and then one of these young punks who wants to make a name for himself goes ahead and does it. And then I have to pick up the pieces."

O'Brien got the impression that Capone was merely a cog in a machine and not a ruler. This was confirmed for him when he was called to Capone's office one day and there met three men.

"I didn't know who they were and don't know now. They sat like three shadows behind Capone and eyed me with what appeared to be cold, unfriendly eyes. Occasionally one of them would ask a question.

SHADOWY FIGURES

"I got the impression that I was being examined by the supreme board of directors. And it seemed to me that behind them were probably figures still more shadowy extending on and perhaps up into the world of seeming respectability."

O'Brien also records a guess that "life in the rackets is not so dangerous as might appear."

"I got the impression that most of the gangland killings were in reality executions and, in a strange sort of way, legal. You see, in ordinary life if a man does any hurt I can sue him and gain damages in court. In the extralegal occupations, gambling, prostitution and bootlegging, the victim of an injustice has no recourse to a court. The only way he can make a man pay a bill and keep honest accounts is to threaten him with death if he fails.

"It was my impression that if a man in the rackets behaved with reasonable honesty he was as safe as he would be in any stratum of society."

The author observes that "the gangster has many characteristics in common with the movie star and I have often wondered whether the actor imitates the gangster or vice versa."

Marion Congressman Cites History

Rep. Smith Attacks Monetary Standards

By FRED J. ZUSY

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Most of us think of money in terms of $5 and $10 bills we shell out for grocery bills, rent or a new pair of shoes for junior.

Rep. Frederick C. Smith (R), former Marion, Ohio, physician and one-time mayor, may have similar ideas sometimes, too, but usually he takes a far broader view.

Smith, a member of the house banking and currency committee, has made the study of money—its economics, history, philosophy—a hobby for about 40 of his 64 years.

Every now and then he gives his views to the house or some government agency.

Recently he made a lengthy speech in Congress proposing that the United States withdraw from the international monetary fund—a sort of world bank with billions in deposits set up under the Bretton Woods agreement.

Smith describes the monetary fund as an international communistic scheme which will lead to "commissar rule" over the world. He fought the plan when it was devised in 1943-45, asserting it was being foisted on the United States by the British.

WAR AND MONEY

In Smith's view, money is tied up closely with wars and revolution and with the economic health of all nations. He says the world is in a bad way these days because of an increasing "deterioration" of money everywhere, adding:

"There has been a constant tendency on the part of governments to put less and less gold back of their currencies."

But he takes you back into history to show how the old Roman emperors increased the supply of available money through novel inflationary methods.

The method then, he says, went like this: The emperor would call in all the coins, say 100,000,000 of them, each with 300 grains of silver in it. He would have them all melted down and then mold 125,000,000 new coins from the same amount of silver simply by adding some cheaper metal to the mix.

The same thing is achieved today by government control of a country's gold, Smith says. Nations then turn to printing press money. They can then print all the money they want.

But, Smith says, a paper dollar is not really money. And, for the benefit of your reporter, he took a $1 bill and a $5 out of his wallet.

"If the dollar bill could speak," he said "it would say 'I am a political promise to pay whatever I'm worth when tendered in the market. I am worth exactly what any political promise is worth."

Smith believes in the free use of gold in the economy with gold traded at its market value, not controlled by any government.

"Political ownership and control of gold is the very essence of communism," he said. "The Russians, Hitler and Mussolini all knew that gold is the keystone of authoritarian power."

COURT CARRIES ON

WEBSTER, S. D. — (UP) — Circuit Judge Harold King, not wishing court held up because two jurors were snowbound at their farm homes, ordered them picked up by airplane. A pilot brought them to court after Sheriff L. V. Knott failed to reach them by car.

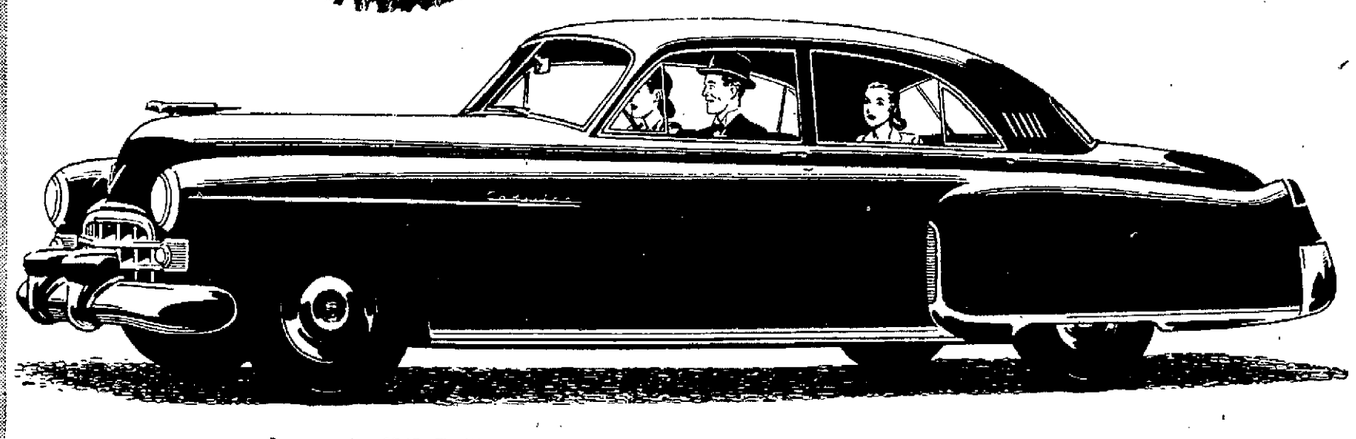
Cadillac

INDIVIDUALITY



Just as the 1948 Cadillac differs from all other cars in the character of its quality and performance—so does it differ in individuality of appearance. More than ever before, Cadillac's inner goodness is now being mirrored in its outward beauty. You can actually see the degree of Cadillac leadership as the car flashes past on the highway. As a result, thousands who have not previously aspired to Cadillac ownership are deciding to make Cadillac their next motor car. Orders placed with dealers in the past few months have broken all records in Cadillac's long history of public approval. Have you seen the new Cadillac? If not, you are welcome to call at our showrooms at any time.

'Uncle' Aids German Girls

BERLIN—(AP)—One of the best assets a German—especially a marriageable woman—can have these days is relatives in the United States. "The good uncle in America" has become a famed figure despite incessant propaganda in the Russian-controlled press which attempts to portray America as greedy and monopolistic.

Perhaps the biggest factor in the "good uncle's" reputation is the flow of parcel post gift relief packages. These come in at the rate of about 1,500,000 per month exclusive of tens of thousands of CARE food packages. Also thousands of tons of food are purchased with American and British tax monies.

Recently one "good uncle" has appeared in marriage offers advertisements. Husband - seeking women list with their charms and assets "have relatives in the United States."

Automobiles have to be carried piecemeal on the backs of coolies over the mountains to reach Nepal, a state in India.

30 Students Build House

AURORA, Colo. —(AP)— Thirty Aurora High school boys are building a house. Divided into two classes, the youths spend 15 hours each week during school hours. They started last November, reading blueprints and designing the five-room frame home. They put in foundation, masonry and studding. Now they're nailing on sheeting.

The project, first of its kind in the Denver suburban area, represents fulfillment of a longtime dream of E. M. Place, teacher of the school's trade and industry courses.

"I've been hoping that some day I could put the boys to work on a real house so they could learn the practical way," Place says. "I think it's paying off in increased interest and better training."

The average U.S. coal miner produces about four times as much coal per day as does an English coal miner.

Heir Sought To Baronetcy

LONDON—(AP)—The ghost town of "Anstruther, Canada West," may yield the heir to an old Irish baronetcy—if anyone can find it.

At stake is the Lynch-Blosse title, created in 1622, and dormant since 1942 when Sir Robert Lynch Blosse, 12th baronet, died. The title is claimed by Robert Cyril Lynch-Blosse, a distant cousin, but the home office declined to make it official on the ground that lineage was in doubt. Some one with a better claim to the title is thought to be alive.

C. F. J. Hankinson, editor of De Brett's Peerage, who is helping to run down both heir and town, said: "All that can be gathered from family records is that Francis, second son of the tenth baronet, who may have married and had children, died in this peculiar 'Anstruther, Canada West,' July 26, 1864. Maybe the town name was changed years ago. Maybe it was some fleeting settlement in North America in the early days; maybe it never existed and the records are all wrong. If anyone knows anything about Anstruther we haven't been able to find him."

FACTS ABOUT Cochran House Paint

IT is a well known fact that five years ago we discontinued the manufacture and sale of Cochran House Paint. Our reason for doing this was that due to the war shortages we could not manufacture a high grade paint such as Cochran House Paint and we would not put a Cochran House Paint label on what has become commonly known as a "War House Paint."

The war has been over for several years, but up to this time it has been impossible to get the necessary raw materials to manufacture Cochran House Paint. We are getting the raw materials now and we are again manufacturing and offering Cochran House Paint for sale.

It has been a long time since the general public has been able to purchase a pre-war high grade house paint, with few exceptions, and it will be a revelation to almost anyone to see and use Cochran House Paint.

Cochran House Paint will do everything expected of a high grade house paint. It has the hiding power, easy brushing qualities and will wear as long as could be rightly expected of a high grade house paint.

By withdrawing Cochran House Paint from the market—our largest selling product—for a period of over five years, because we could not manufacture a house paint up to the Cochran standard, we believe that we have proven beyond the slightest question of a doubt that the name Cochran on a paint label really means something and that something is quality.

One-Third of All World War II Vets Taking GI Training

Broadening Effect Seen By Leaders

Billions Each Year Program Costs U. S.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The huge GI bill education program has brought the influence of the federal government into the education field on an unprecedented scale.

Already 4,850,000 American men and women who served in World War II have benefitted from the various types of education offered by the nation at a cost of $2,750,000,000 a year.

That's one-third of all World War II veterans and the program is just now in its perk. It will run on until July, 1956, for virtually all veterans and a little longer for a few.

Educators point out that institutions of higher learning — colleges and universities — are educating 1,000,000 more men and women today than they were in 1940. There's a waiting list of 500,000 prospective college students.

But the GI bill provides more than higher learning. Its vast educational program under joint control of individual states and the Veterans administration, but paid for by the federal government, is divided into three parts:

3-PART PROGRAM

1. Education in schools, colleges and universities — called institutional training. (1,705,000 veterans are in this phase of the program.)

2. On-the-job training, in thousands of different industrial and business establishments (479,000 are in this.)

3. Institutional on-the-farm training on thousands of self-supporting, veteran-managed or veteran-owned farms of all sizes.

These are the figures on veterans now getting GI bill education. Many others have completed their studies or training programs; some have dropped out.

(Latest VA statistics show a slight decline in the number of veterans at institutions of higher learning, a slight increase in the number at lower schools and vocational schools.)

Total cost to date is roughly $4,700,000,000. A recent boost in subsistence allowances and a lifting of the so-called "ceilings" for on-the-job trainees will raise the rate of expenditure.

COURSES FACE AXE

The only other major change being considered is a proposal now in the House veterans committee to cut out all training which doesn't lead to a definite employment objective. This is aimed at certain flight-training, dancing, lass and other avocational courses.

Educators who have watched GI bill education in action predict it will have a lasting influence on American education.

Representatives of the American Council on Education and the Association of American Colleges believe veterans who receive school and college training will want their children and younger brothers and sisters to have the same chance they did, and they'll expect federal aid.

The office of education says the significance of on-the-job training lies in its future application. Thousands of veterans who are now trainees, it points out, will some day be employers. They will appreciate the value of training-on-the-job, with its progressive step-ups in salary until the job-objective is reached.

Until the GI bill came along few people ever got this kind of training. But since June, 1944, (date of the GI bill) 1,194,000 veterans have enrolled in job-training establishments. The law provides tight training standards and constant policing of employers to see that they live up to the standards.

(Job-trainees get an allowance from the government which is proportionately cut as the entry wage is increased. When the veteran is trained to take over his job-objective the allowance stops.)

There is no limit to the number and types of jobs which can be fitted to job-training. Latest figures show that 334 veterans were training to be stock and bond salesmen; over 5,000 were becoming cabinetmakers, 18,000 were in "trade and service" job-training programs. State approval agencies have approved 700,000 establishments to give the training.

The American Vocational association says institutional on-farm training has "re-vitalized" our agricultural economy.

AVA has worked closely with the program, which provides expert on-the-farm instruction for veterans who manage self-supporting farms. AVA says the aid should prove invaluable to our agricultural economy and should give "the family-size farm its proper place in our economy."

Five Citizen-Immigrants Cherish Freedom Above All

Mansfielders Laud Liberty Of Americans

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A wartime interest in languages paid off for News-Journal Reporter Bob Edwards when he was assigned to this story. Four of the five Mansfielders interviewed could not speak adequate English and Edwards conducted the interview in French, Italian, Hungarian and English.)

By BOB EDWARDS

Five new Mansfielders just arrived here from their home countries of Romania and Brazil prize American liberty more than food.

Eighteen-year-old Constantive Velchio from Bucharest, Romania, speaks for the group when she says "The best thing about America is the liberty. It is good to have so much food but we like most of all the liberty."

The group, all American citizens, includes Constantine Velchio and her sister, Sandra, George Andrei and Theodore Lascu of Romania, and Frank Kampf, a second generation Texas from Sao Paulo, Brazil.

All five are employed in the assembly division of Dominion Electric corporation. Palmer White, general foreman of the division, admits that because the five speak "sketchy" English, it is difficult to communicate with them.

"But they're good workers," says White. "We just show them what we want down and they do it."

FATHERS IN AMERICA

All five are in the peculiar position of having fathers who were either naturalized or native American citizens but who returned to their home countries and lost their Yankee citizenship.

Peter Velchio, father of Constantine and Sandra, migrated to the United States and lived in Newark, O., for many years. In 1934 he returned to Romania and married. Velchio never returned to his adopted country and forfeited his citizenship.

But his daughters, though born abroad, were American citizens. Had the girls remained in Bucharest, their home town, after their twenty-first birthdays, they, too, would have lost their citizenship.

This is the first time the girls have ever been away from their parents for any length of time and they miss them deeply. They spend their days working to earn the money needed to bring their parents to this country.

At night, they write long letters to their mother and father telling them how much they miss them and that it won't be long before they are reunited.

Because the girls must furnish affidavits of support for their parents and post bonds of $1,000 before their father and mother can leave Bucharest and come here, it probably will be considerably more than a year before the family is together again.

LIFE 'VERY DIFFERENT'

"Life in Romania is very different from life in America," the girls aver. "We would never be able to go on the street at night alone as the boys and girls do here."

'In the first place our parents wouldn't permit it, and even if they did we couldn't because of all the school work we had always to do."

Constantine and Sandra are inclined to think that American school children have it too easy. "Here a full course is four subjects a year," says Constantine. "In my eleventh year in high school, I had fifteen subjects."

Next in importance to being reunited with their father and mother here, the Velchio sisters want to return to school.

"It is our supreme desire," murmurs the normally shy and quiet Sandra.

"Sandra was studying to be a doctor," says Constantine. "I wanted so much to be a construction engineer. But now we must work to bring our father and mother here. We don't mind but we did like school."

Frank Kampf, who came here from Sao Paulo, Brazil, whose father was raised in Texas, likes "everything" about America.

ARDENT TEXAS BOOSTER

Like all Texans, naturalized or native-born, Frank's father got "Texas fever" and was an ardent lone star state booster.

When asked why he came to the United States, Frank replied, "Ever since I am a very little boy, all I hear my father talk about is Texas, Texas, Texas. So I come to Mansfield."

Frank, who speaks four languages and is working on his fifth in weekly English classes at Friendly House, wants to make Mansfield his home because he thinks it's the perfect-sized city.

"It's not too big, not too small," says Frank. "Mansfield is a nice city. I think I stay here."

George Andrei and Theodore Lascu, both of whom come from the Transylvania region of Romania, met at the American Mission in Bucharest.

In the few months they have known one another they have become fast friends and both live with relatives of Theodore, Nick Moga, at Garden Acres.

PAIR SPLITS UP

When the boys first arrived in America they split up. George going to see relatives in Baltimore and Theodore coming straight to Mansfield.

Baltimore didn't agree with George and furthermore, America was a lonely place without his friend Theodore. One day George caught a train to Mansfield and when he arrived here Theodore helped get him a job at Dominion.

George is happy now and plans to live in Mansfield. "We must work hard and pay the government the $500 it cost to come here," he says.

When asked if many people in Romania would like to come to the United States, Theodore grins broadly, and says, "Sure. Everyone in Romania would come to America if they could. We were lucky."

Why did they want to come to America?

"We are American citizens," George says soberly. "This is our country. It is strange to be a citizen of a country you cannot remember and besides, it is a good thing to be an American these days."

Heat Treatment Experiments Offer Surprises to Doctors

IOWA CITY, Iowa — (AP) — Heat treatments, used to relieve pain, have turned up some new surprises and puzzles at the University of Iowa college of medicine.

Doctors have long used heat lamps, diathermy machines and hot pads to ease pain and swelling. But no one knows just why they have this effect. One thing the heat was thought to do was to increase the blood flow.

Using animals, Drs. W. D. Paul, C. R. Kemp and H. M. Hines put this theory to a test. Then came the surprises. Short-wave heat, they found, didn't increase the blood flow in veins or arteries under the skin. If anything, it decreased the flow.

But microwaves, the extremely short waves like those used in radar, did boost the blood flow. Why there should be this difference, and whether one is more beneficial than the other, are still unknowns, Dr. Paul said.

The blood flow was measured by detouring the blood from an artery through a glass shunt. The glass gadget released an air bubble into the bloodstream and recaptured it before the blood re-entered the artery. The speed of the flow could be measured by the speed of the bubble's travel.

Under heat treatment, the capillaries or small blood vessels in the skin do dilate or expand. But, Dr. Paul said, it hasn't been proved yet that the blood flows through them faster. Ice makes the capillaries contract. The cold also does decrease the flow of blood in large blood vessels.

Soda Useful For X-Rays

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Soda pop drinks are useful as an aid to X-Rays, especially for children, says Dr. Stanley S. Nemec of St. Louis in the Laryngoscope.

The soft drink distends the stomach with the bubble gas. This ballooning is an aid for better X-ray seeing of swallowed objects in or near the stomach.

Dr. Nemec says that young children who are the most frequent patients of this kind often refuse to swallow barium, the stuff ordinarily used to outline internal organs. Sometimes they cannot be forced to swallow barium, but he says they eagerly drink a bottle of soda pop.

Dairy State Marks Birth

Wisconsin Attains Century as State

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin, the dairyland of the nation and vacationland of the midwest, is celebrating its centennial of statehood—a century packed with progress and robust activity.

The nation's leader in the dairy industry is boasting about that accomplishment and pointing with pride to itself also as the birthplace of the Republican party, workmen's compensation, vitamin D, regulation of utilities and a score of other things.

Although May 29 is the formal anniversary date for the last state to be cut from the old northwest territory, Wisconsin is making it practically an all-year celebration. Everybody's in the act—school children, big business, farmers and public servants.

The legislature appropriated $350,000 to put on the party, but that is only a small part of what is being spent. The state fair park exposition board is pouring in another $1,500,000. Industry is adding at least $2,000,000 and agriculture is contributing a considerable sum.

An exposition this summer tops the state's celebrations. It will be held at the state fair grounds in Milwaukee August 7-29 and is expected to attract 2,000,000 visitors. It will be a show that will depict Wisconsin's progress in agriculture, industry, education and legislation.

Two complete farms will be built on the exposition grounds. One will be a farm of 1848. Another will be the farm of today with all its modern conveniences. Industry will install complete work shops of 100 years ago and of today. Business plants will do the same to show their growth.

The state conservation department will transplant some of the north woods to the huge show grounds to demonstrate to visitors the things that make the state one of the favored spots of vacationists.

The celebration opened in January in Madison, the state capital, with a pageant and ball. On May 29 there will be other special observances in all parts of the state to mark the day Wisconsin was admitted into the union in 1848.

3 Superforts Touring Globe

WIESBADEN, Germany — (AP) — Two of three B-29 superfortresses on a long range round-the-world flight from the United States arrived in Germany Friday night, the U. S. Airforce announced.

The third superfortress on the navigational mission was delayed at Prestwick, Scotland.

The planes are expected to take off again Monday or Tuesday. They will fly to Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, Karachi, New Delhi, the Philippines and Okinawa, then across the Pacific to the U. S. Pilots of the two planes, which landed last night, were identified as Capt. C. C. Van Atta, of Richmond, Ohio, and Capt. James M. McFarland, of Watsontown, Pa.

Named Dean at Akron University

AKRON — (AP) — Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, jr., dean of Centenary college, Shreveport, La., will succeed Dr. Charles E. Bulger as dean of the college of liberal arts at the University of Akron, it was announced Saturday.

Dr. Bulger, now 62, has been at the university almost continuously since entering old Buchtel college in 1904. He will remain as dean of graduate study and head of the modern language department. Dr. Cherrington will assume his duties here about August 1.

Who Spends Salary In Average Family?

Who handles the family paychecks in Mansfield? When Pop walks in with his weekly wages, does he hand it over to Mom and let her handle the finances? Or does he dole out an allowance for food and home expenses?

It seems to work both ways and other ways, too, for the answers the forum got when it asked six Mansfielders, "Who handles the money in your family?"

★

MRS. GAIL WELCH, Belmont avenue: "In our family we work out finances with a budget system. We keep books and also put money in several envelopes for specific expenses. Even though it is hard to stick to a budget these days with costs going uup, we find it better than just going at it haphazardly."

Mrs. Welch

★

EDDIE KNIPP, 11 Shelby avenue: "I generally take care of the money myself. I take care of all expenses, do all the buying, and pay all the bills. Of course, my wife buys all her own things like dresses with money I give her for that. It is a good arrangement. It suits me."

Eddie Knipp

MRS. HILBERT SCHRACK, Lucas: "We both handle the money in our home. We're fairly sure what our expenses are going to be each week and we hold out enough money to meet them. The rest we put away until we need it for something unforeseen. It must work because we get along."

Mrs. Schrack

★

ARNOLD FULTZ, Hoover road: "I think Mansfield women handle the cash. I give my wife my check and she takes care of all the expenses around home. I make the money, she is the manager. Of course, I do keep out money for my own expenses. It is a good set-up. She does better than I could do."

Arnold Fultz

MRS. LILLE MAE PROSSER, 14 Blanche street: "I'll bet more Mansfield women than men handle the family money. I do for our family. That's the way it should be, too. Women shop more and are more familiar with prices and bargains and they aren't as extravagant as men."

Mrs. Prosser

★

DON RUDOLPH, 824 Springmill street: "My wife and I split the paycheck 50-50. She takes care of her expenses and I take care of mine. That way it works out very directly and simply. I think that probably the men handle their own paychecks now, because so many women work and have money of their own."

Don Rudolph

4,500 a Day See Mansion

WASHINGTON (AP)—An average of more than 4,500 persons a day are visiting the White House this spring. On a recent Saturday the number totalled 6,800. This is the largest group to be conducted through the Executive Mansion since before the War.

In addition, Mrs. Truman has personally received record thousands, many of whom she has invited to tea in the walnut-panelled state dining room.

The groups received by the First Lady are widely varied. They range from such organizations as the Young Married Women's Club, a group of 75 sponsored by the local Y.W.C.A., to the D.A.R.'s 3,750 members attending the Society's 57th Continental Congress.

El Salvador Issues Stamp Honoring FDR

To honor the third anniversary of the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, El Salvador has issued two new sets of stamps. Six are airmail and six are regular postage.

The 5 centavos blue postage and 14 centavos yellow green airmail depict Roosevelt presenting medals to American troops. The 8 centavos green postage and 25 centavos red airmail picture the late president and Mrs. Roosevelt examining stamp albums. The 12 centavos violet postage and 12 centavos green airmail bear a vignette of Roosevelt.

The 15 centavos orange postage and 1 colon grey violet airmail show a conference of Roosevelt, Churchill and Mackenzie King. The 20 centavos red postage and 20 centavos brown airmail picture Roosevelt and Cordell Hull. The 50 centavos blue grey postage and 2 colon violet great air illustrate the funeral procession leaving the White House.

Rooms Need Double Duty

With the trend toward smaller homes and at the same time diversified family activities and interests, architects say that every room in the house should be made to do double and even triple duty, since few home owners can afford the luxury of additional rooms for special uses.

Accordingly, many small homes today are designed so activities can be absorbed in areas other than the living room. A bedroom furnished as a study solves the problem of quietness for mental concentration. An alcove can be used for hobby work which can be placed out of sight if adequate cabinets are provided.

By combining dining and living room, more space is available for large groups. Lines of division are achieved by arrangement of furniture or low bookshelves or cabinets. Since it is not always possible to provide a special recreation room, careful arrangement of kitchen-dining space will permit children to entertain here without interfering with other members of the family in the living room.

Walter Write Writes—

Injured Reuther Continues Battle From Hospital Bed

DETROIT—I have just come from the hospital where Walter Reuther has been fighting the toughest of a lite time of tough fights—this time to win back the life which literally was almost snatched away from him. I went to see him not as a columnist but as a friend. The shattered right arm through which seven slugs tore holes each the size of a dime was hung in a complicated contraption which seemed to have as many gadgets as one of Rube Goldberg's cartoons.

The pain he suffers is still excruciating and reaches almost unbearable heights when electric treatment is given to keep the muscles and nerves from decaying. But if the assassins thought that by splintering his flesh and bones they could lessen his fighting spirit, they were grievously mistaken. Stretched on a bed of misery, Reuther is determined to fight the enemies of labor and a decent America even more unrelentingly than before he was shot.

WHITE

But here was no cigar-chewing labor leader of the old school. The hour's conversation might have been with a learned professor of economics or the enlightened head of a multi-million dollar corporation. Even as he grimaced with pain, Reuther talked about the efforts he continues to make in hospital to persuade the city of Detroit and that city's industrialists to convert to coal and thereby save gas to prevent suffering next winter. He talked animatedly of the pending wage negotiations of the UAW-CIO with Chrysler and other motor car manufacturers. He talked with brutal frankness of those who might have had reason to kill him, as coolly and objectively as though he were talking about negotiations for a new wage contract.

"We'd been in a board meeting from 2 p. m. to 8:45 p. m. and some of the boys suggested we go somewhere for dinner," he told me. "But I wanted to go home so I called Mae to ask her if there was any food in the house and she told me to come on home and raid the ice box. I always enter the house by the back door, but that night for some reason I can't fathom I went in the front door.

"In that fashion I probably saved my life because the killers, who were not emotional amateurs but professionals, were waiting for me. They coolly held their fire until I made a good target. They fired from no more than eight feet from where I stood. If I had not turned to get a bowl of fruit salad out of the ice box at the precise second I did, they would have got me right in the back and I'd have been a goner."

There was another way in which Reuther differed markedly from the old time labor leader. His blue eyes became moist as he told of the pride which filled him when last year he presented his mother and father to the UAW-CIO convention. The elder Reuther had been a fighter for the rights of workers to organize at a time when such a career was even more perilous than it is today. He had been blacklisted by employers for his union activities and he and his family had often been on the verge of starvation. Unable to obtain a job, he had opened a restaurant only to have his eyes blinded when a bottle of soda pop exploded as he opened the refrigerator door.

Mrs. Reuther was penniless as she faced the grim necessity of supporting a blinded husband and five children. Walter Reuther's gameness in fighting for recovery from the shot gun blast seemed perfectly natural in the light of the heritage from his parents who had let neither disaster nor poverty weaken for a minute their determination to fight for decent treatment for employes.

Terrified of amputation ever since a doctor had wanted to cut off his foot because of an accident in his youth, Walter's delight that his arm would not have to be amputated was no less moving than the story he told of the courage and fortitude he had inherited from his parents.

"Tell everybody I am going to come out of here fighting harder than I ever fought before," he told me as I left the room.

As Walter's scholarly brother, Victor, and I drove away from the hospital, we talked of what lies ahead in labor-management relations and the role the Reuthers hope to play in that titanic struggle. I wished heartily for America's sake that we had more leaders of labor like the Reuthers and, even more, that we had employers of equal stature. If that were true, labor conflict in the United States would be reduced to an irreducible minimum.

What good fortune it was for America that Walter's love of fruit salad caused him to turn at the split second to take a bowl from the refrigerator just in time to save his life!

Britain Cools To Labor Party

LONDON — (AP)— The Sunday Pictorial said Saturday a public opinion poll shows that "if a general election were held in Britain this week the labor government would be thrown out of power."

The Pictorial said the survey by Research Services, Ltd., indicates that the vote would be 49 per cent conservative, 38 per cent labor and 13 per cent liberal.

The Pictorial, which has a circulation of more than five million, is politically independent but is generally more friendly to the labor party than to any other.

Navy Names Six In Area

Men Pass Exams For Navy Training

Five men from the Mansfield area yesterday were chosen for entry in the Naval Reserve Officers' Training corps at 52 colleges next fall, the Navy announced yesterday.

Listed by the Navy as alternate was Andrew J. Colace of 425 Sherman place, Mansfield.

The men were among 127 Ohioans chosen from Ohio high schools and colleges who passed the Navy's college aptitude tests. 10 now enlisted in the Navy, and five in the Marines, the Associated Press reported. In addition, 36 alternates were named.

COLACE

Chosen from the high school and college group were Donald S. Bailey of 303 West Liberty street, Ashland; Darwin L. Sampsel, 42 Park avenue, Shelby, and Harold C. Smith, 4 St. Clair street, Millersburg.

Colace was the only alternate named from the Mansfield area.

Navy enlisted men chosen included George M. Hatcher, R. D. 3, Shelby, who at present is attending the Bainbridge (Md.) Naval school, and Victor E. Zimmerman, R. D. 2, Loudonville, who is attending the Air Technical Training center, Memphis, Tenn.

Sewer Yields Stolen Goods

BANGKOK, Siam—(AP)— Police recovered $750,000 worth of stolen gold Saturday—in a sewer drain.

Thirty bars of gold, part of the nearly $3,000,000 shipment hijacked Tuesday on its way to a customs house, was found jammed into a drain behind a Bangkok gold shop the same one in which police caught the owner melting down another portion of the loot.

Investigators already had recovered several hundred thousand dollars worth of the loot seized by a gang of 20 or 30 men. The investigators also reported the arrest of six new suspects, including two air force lieutenants. Nineteen others had been held up to yesterday.

Truck Sales On Increase

Continuing their record-breaking pace, new truck registrations from 37 states for March totaled 65,251 units, as compared with 52,502 units for the same states in March, 1947, R. L. Polk and company of Detroit, statisticians for the automotive industry, reported today.

It is expected that when all states are tabulated totals for the month will reach more than 95,000 units, to surpass the industry's previous high of 87,167 new trucks registered in October, 1947.

New passenger car registrations from 44 states tabulated thus far for March totaled 245,540 units as compared with 202,983 for the same states last year. The first quarter of the year will see close to 800,000 new passenger cars registered, it is estimated.

Hollywood Scene

Actor Flopped as Clown

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Circus clowns are the special enthusiasm of Film Actor Joseph Cotten. Why? Because, he confesses, he has always wanted to be one.

He tried, once. And he failed.

Cotten collects books, posters, toys, costumes—everything pertaining to circus clowns He has become quite an authority on their history.

"Eight years ago Director Norman Foster and I got permission from Alex North, head of Ringling Brothers, to tour with the circus as clowns if we could provide a funny act," Cotten related. "At the time our chief purpose was to gather material for a book we were going to write on circus life.

"The act we worked up simply wasn't good enough As clowns we were flops, and the circus wouldn't take us. A clown has a very tough job. Anyway, I've been deeply interested in clowns ever since."

Joseph Cotton

It's a well known fact, that, in real life, clowns are inclined to be morose. In his dressing room on the set of "Weep No More," Cotten has a poster of Grock, the famous French clown. Press dispatches recently quoted Grock as saying, "The world is a terrible place."

Many of the amateur artists in the film colony like to paint clowns. Director Richard Whorf and Comedian Red Skelton have won serious attention with their clown portraits. Cotten's daughter paints, but she says she can't catch the spirit of the circus funny men with big noses and flat feet Cotten himself can't paint anything, and he admits it.

But, from friends and strangers alike, he gets so many offers of clown portraits for sale that his wife recently commented significantly, "we don't need any more clowns in this family."

Cotten has a theory that the professional mourners at funerals in old Roman days were among the world's first clowns.

"They acted out the good deeds of the departed," he said. "But they cavorted at times, too. The only explanation I can think of is this: When the deceased was a first-rate stinker, and everybody knew it, his eulogy sounded silly. The assemblage probably laughed. And the paid mourners, in true actor fashion, took credit for being funny intentionally."

Peace Sought Centuries Ago

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON- (AP)- Peace leagues? World government? The Greeks had a word for it And so did Caesar, Cardinal Wolsey Henry of Navarre, William Penn and Czar Alexander I.

After every major conflict, kings or scholars, shocked by the agony and spiritual degradation of war, have sought some key to everlasting peace

The League of Nations was believed to be the answer in 1920 The United Nations was hopefully brought forth in 1945.

The Brussels treaty, signed two months ago, formed, perhaps, the most significant alliance in European history. Five old neighbors, burying age-long antagonisms and conflicts of interest, joined in a 50-year pact, promising to cooperate for their mutual economic and social betterment and to give military assistance to any of the group which is attacked in Europe. The signers were Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Meanwhile, in this country and over a large part of the globe, a powerful and growing movement among peoples, not yet closely involving governments, is seeking a way to federate the entire world under one flag.

Inhabitants of this planet have heard all these ideas before and have tried some of them

The story of the long search for peace was told in 1943 by a Fordham university historian Sylvester John Hemleben, in a book, "Plans for World Peace Through Six Centuries." The following facts are taken largely from his study.

GREEKS PURSUED PEACE

The war-weary Greek city states formed a semi-religious federation called the Delphic Amphictyony. It was ancient people's nearest approach to a peace league, and it was the first to provide for arbitration of disputes among sovereign states.

The first real approach to lasting world peace was achieved under the Roman empire. But this was Pax Romana, an enforced imperialist peace. It was not a free association of sovereign states.

The most effective agency for peace during the dark ages and the medieval period was the Papacy, using both material force and religious influence to settle international disputes Many a time it helped to keep order when war threatened.

At the same time, strong nations emerged with a mission to impose their version of Pax Romana. There was the Carolingian empire and Charlemagne's Holy Roman empire.

(We have seen the same idea in our day. The Japanese militarists' "Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere", Hitler's proposed union of Aryan peoples under the Nazi banner An American, James Burnham, in his book, "The Struggle for the World," has proposed that the United States impose a Pax Romana before the world destroys itself with atom bombs.)

Some book has usually heralded a peace movement, crystalizing or perfecting thoughts which already were beginning to run in people's minds (Like Emery Reves' widely translated "Anatomy of Peace," published in 1945, before Hiroshima, now a major impetus behind the world government movement.)

FEDERATION PROPOSED

Such a book was written between 1305 and 1307 by Pierre Dubois, a lawyer and advisor to Philip le Bel, king of France. His "DeRecuperatione terre Sancte" proposed a federation of all Christian nations Disputes would be settled by an international council Any power starting a war would be boycotted and suppressed with military force by the other nations.

France was to be the dominant power, but it was not to be an empire. The nations were to retain their independence and sovereignty. This idea of Dubois formed the basis for nearly all later thinking on peace projects.

Cardinal Wolsey, King Henry VIII's minister, in 1518 promoted the first modern league of nations. A war between France and England had just ended. The Turks long before had conquered Constantinople and were threatening Europe.

France, England, Spain and the Papacy—the big four of that day—joined Wolsey's league. All were to unite in war against any member that invaded or threatened to invade another member. This league lasted only one year.

A famous milestone along the road to peace was "The Grand Design" of King Henry IV of France (Henry of Navarre). Some say it was the idea of Sully, Henry's finance minister.

This plan outlined a re-division and federation of Europe, and an international council and police force. The Duke of Muscovy (Russia) was to be invited to join, but if he refused he was to be squeezed out of Europe and confined to Asia

PENN'S PROPOSAL

Like most of the peace projects, the Grand Design never got further than the planning stage. For the next 200 years one great name after another was connected with a succession of peace programs:

William Penn, who had obtained his charter for the colony of Pennsylvania in 1681, wrote an essay in 1693 proposing a Parliament of Europe. Despite his Quaker pacifism, Penn provided that member nations were to make war on fellow members who did not abide by the parliament's decisions.

After the long Napoleonic wars, Alexander I, czar of Russia, in 1816 got the European nations to join with him in the Holy Alliance Alexander had done a lot of reading about the grand design and about Saint-Pierre's peace plan

The alliance never accomplished much, although it is said that Czar Nicholas II was motivated chiefly by it when he called the first international peace conference at the Hague in 1899.

The League of Nations, Woodrow Wilson's prescription for peace, was the most promising and ambitious of all the peace projects up to that time.

Arnold J Toynbee, the historian, sums up his idea of the present outlook toward the close of his "A Study of History"

If the present cycle of wars runs its course, he says, it will end in the establishment of a universal state by some surviving power. We now have a new opportunity to abolish war, he continues, through "a cooperative system of world government.

"Whether we in our world will succeed in achieving what no other civilization has ever yet achieved is a question on the knees of the gods"

TRUSTEES SELECTED

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Rev. John Cyrus of Omaha, Neb., Mrs Robert L. Turner, Alton, Ill., and Lee M. Burkey, Chicago, were made trustees at the concluding business session of the 96th Western Unitarian conference Saturday. Each will serve four years.

Chesterville High Seniors Are Highly Impressed By Trip to Nation's Capital

(Special to The News-Journal)

WASHINGTON—It was not an easy task for W. G. Spies, supervising principal of Chesterville schools, to get his high school pupils down from the heights of the Capitol dome Monday afternoon.

And no wonder—because, for the first time, the 22 seniors in Washington for a tour of the city, could see all of the nation's capital at once. It was a hey-day for camera enthusiasts. They were snapping the Potomac which curved away to the south of the Capitol, and the prominent government buildings.

Spies and his wife, and even Coach Glen Hockenshilt and his wife, admitted it was not easy to leave the dome veranda.

One thing sure, the children were having the time of their lives. Spies added that the trip was the most educational the Chesterville schools had ever taken.

Kenneth Kennedy, 17, who was sighting his camera through the granite rungs of the veranda, said he hoped to capture a few scenes for the high school year book.

Dixie Denman, 17, said she would like to see Washington from the dome every day. She complained the group did not have enough time in Washington.

IMPRESSED BY POTOMAC

Mae Bachelder, 17, was impressed by the Potomac, but said her greatest experience since she left home was a ride along the Pennsylvania turnpike, just before the students went to Gettysburg.

Lewis Ebrsoe, 18, who, like most pupils, is here for the first time, was impressed by the wide streets. Captain of both the basketball and football teams, Ebrsoe was still convinced he did not want to be a politician, even though he had not decided what he wanted to do when he finished high school.

Clarence Matthews, 18, also a camera enthusiast, said he never saw more selections for his view sights in his life. He said he probably will never forget his first Washington trip.

Class President Wanda Baughman, 17, said this week she was fulfilling a life-long ambition . . . to walk up the Capitol steps. Still, she was not sure what impressed her most.

"There is just too much to see," she said.

Gladys Erow, 17, said it would be a good idea if high school students came to Washington before they began studying civics.

"A trip here would make civics much more interesting," she said. "It would mean many more high marks."

WILL NEVER FORGET

Barbara Denman, 17, said she will never forget the majesty of the empty Senate chambers. There was no one on the Senate floor when the students arrived. Miss Denman said she would have to come back to see the Senate in action.

Unimpressed by Washington is LeRoy Tobin, 18, who said he was just along for the trip. He said he enjoyed it, however.

Charles Hilston, 17, suggested that some of the Government buildings "could stand a little cleaning." To Hilston, the White House was most impressive—chiefly because it was so white.

James Wertz, 18, will never be a politician. Sure, he will be back to Washington again, for he admitted he's never seen a prettier city in his life. But Wertz is set on being a farmer and as to politics, he—"just doesn't like it."

Ethel Shipley, 17, Dorothy Kile, 17, and Jean Clinage, 17, all said they would like to come back to Washington, perhaps even to work. At present, however, they said they were perfectly satisfied with their own Chesterville.

Mary Nauman, 17, who plans to work in a telephone company office when she graduates, said she was along pretty much for the ride but admitted she never knew politics could be so interesting.

JUST BEAUTIFUL

To Bonnie Campbell, 18, everything was "just beautiful", and she stated that she was "awfully interested."

Thumbs down to politics was also given by Marshall Weickel, 17, who said he couldn't wait until the school visited the FBI building.

Washington's buildings have another admirer in Dale Simmons, 18, who likes them "because they are not too high."

The seniors plan to visit nearby Virginia and George Washington's birthplace, Mount Vernon. An important item on their itinerary is a visit to Rep. Frederick C. Smith's congressional office.

Graduation Plans Set

SHILOH — The Shiloh schools will hold their graduation exercises today and Monday.

Baccalaureate services will be held tonight in the Methodist church. Rev. Galdfelter will deliver the invocation and benediction while Rev. Haines will read the scripture and give the sermon.

Commencement will be tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. Opening with a processional, invocation by Rev. Gladfelter will follow.

The salutatory address will be delivered by Dorothy Brook and the valedictory will be delivered by Alice Jean Seaman. Paul Barrett will give the class address.

Superintendent Randall Hartley will present the class as Raymond Wolford, president of the board of education, hands out the diplomas. Benediction will be made by Rev. Haines.

Other members of the graduating class are Don R. Campbell, Raymond Dean England, Robert E. Heifner, Donald E. Hudson, Lottiebell Malone, Marthadell Malone, Marlene Marie Phillips, Agnes Imogene Tackett, and John W. Young.

Methodist Conference Meets In Millersburg

MILLERSBURG — The fourth quarterly conference of the First Methodist church will be held in the Millersburg church, Monday at 6:50 p. m. with Dr. W. W. Dieterich presiding.

The members of the conference with their families will meet together for a pot-luck supper. The business meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m.

SADDLE CLUB MEETS

MILLERSBURG — The Holmes County Saddle club will meet today at the Millersburg fair grounds at 1 p. m. All persons interested in joining the club are asked to attend.

Cleveland's Met Attracts Mansfielders

MANSFIELDERS kept the highways busy during the past week as hundreds from here made their annual visit to the Metropolitan Opera in Public Hall, Cleveland. The city's many music lovers and musicians were very much in evidence for the nine operas presented to capacity audiences.

Shown above are a group who attended during the past week, several of them season ticket holders. Dr. and Mrs. Myers have been opera fans for many years and can always be found in the orchestra seats.

Mrs. Herbert, well known local musician, had as her guest a Cleveland friend, Miss Nell Stack, a professional harpist.

Miss Florence MacDonald, Mansfield vocal teacher, was seen with two of her pupils, Miss Beverly Wentz and Miss Erma Jenkins, both of this city.

Other Mansfielders seen at the opera on Saturday included A. E. Alleshouse, Mr. and Mrs. John Mahon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cottrell, Miss Lucille Bushy, Mrs. Doris Peters, Mrs. John O'Leary, Miss Helen Groman, Miss Doris Ranck, Mrs. Joseph Zimmerman, Mrs. Fabian Zimmerman, Mrs. V. S. Williams, Miss Leonora Berrick, Mr. and Mrs. George Calhoun, John Knight, Miss Althea Lorentz, Mrs. Miriam Culler Byerly, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Post, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Horst, Mrs. Marie Hildreth, Miss Pauline McDowell, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. William Gugler, Paul Todd, Miss Genevieve Vanderbilt, Mrs. S. L. Wolf, Miss Veronica Hanley, Miss Camille Beaucamp, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. James Farrow, James Melchert, Miss Carolyn Pifer, Mrs. Iona Pifer, Miss Chattie Sullivan, Miss Ellen Terry, Mrs. W. R. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. O'Brien, Miss Evelyn Schroeder, A. C. Schroeder, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Guthrie, Miss June McClenethan, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith and Orlo Smith jr., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Zackman, Mrs. Mary Ranck, Merle Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Reed and daughter, Dr. Betty Reed, Dr. and Mrs. T. Test, Miss Bessie Juergens, Miss Annabelle Pifer and Miss Ruby Cobnara.

On Friday evening the society reporters saw Miss Elizabeth Burneson, Miss Dorothy Polin, Miss Marilyn Larson, Miss Betty Pfleider, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Adams, Miss Addis Adams, Mr. and Mrs. George Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Joy Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huston, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seybold, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. William Gugler, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Horst, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schettler, Mr. and Mrs. Don Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. James McCormick, Harold McCuen, Mrs. Blanche Eckels, Miss Teresa Peiffer, Mrs. John S. Jones, Miss Shirley Bauer, George Miller, Mrs. Sherman Wentz and daughter, Marjorie, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pryor, Millard and Freddie Pryor, Mrs. Paul Cropper, Dwight Eckert and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Parr.

The season ticket holders were Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Myers, Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huston, Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, Miss Louise Krause, Mrs. Mabel Greer, Miss Florence MacDonald, Mrs. Mary Berry, Miss Myrtle Booth, Mrs. Falsom Teeters, Miss Beverly Wentz and Miss Erma Jenkins.

The Monday evening performance of "Manon" was well attended and received by the large audience.

Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," which had been presented within the last three years, was still a favorite at the peformance Tuesday evening. "Il Trovatore" was given Thursday and "La Boheme" on Wednesday.

Dress is optional but many striking evening clothes were seen at the various performances.

Friday's double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" drew hearty applause from the nearly full house. In the evening "Don Giovanni" with Enzio Pinza and Rose Bampton pleased the appreciative audience. Saturday's repertoire included "Carmen" with Rise Stevens in the afternoon and "The Masked Ball" for the evening performance.

Following the custom of the northern Ohio Opera Association five operas were brought back for this season that had not been heard here for several years. With these were four others heard in more recent seasons.

So great was the success of Verdi's "The Masked Ball" which was heard in Cleveland two years ago, that it was returned practically by public demand. "Carmen" had its 11th year in Cleveland.

WESTBROOK CLUB LISTS MAY, JUNE SCHEDULE

State Regent Of DAR Speaks To Chapter

Mrs. Frank O. McMillen of Akron, state DAR regent, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Friday evening in the undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church. She told the group of the work being carried on by the state organization and spoke concerning the Continental Congress which she attended in Washington recently.

During her interesting talk she announced the Daughters of the American Revolution now number 160,000 throughout the United States. Another phase of her talk was of the St. Mary's school in South Dakota which is sponsored by the DAR for the Indians.

Announcement was made of the new building which is being erected in Washington, D. C., for the DAR which now has two but has an overcrowded condition.

Mrs. Robert W. Jones presided for the meeting which was attended by 30 members and one guest, Mrs. A. G. Loderwick. Another feature of the program was vocal selections sung by Miss Marjorie Selby, accompanied by Miss Martha Shiplet. Her numbers were "Why Do I Love You?" and "Pardon Me, Madame."

At the close of the evening refreshments were served from a dainty srving table.

The closing meeting of the season will be the annual observance of Flag day on June 14. This will be a picnic at South Park in charge of Mrs. M. L. Bayer and her committee. Mrs. Brinkerhoff Spear and her committee members presided as hostesses Friday.

Fluffy omelet may be varied from time to time: one way is to add minced cooked ham to the egg yolk mixture before folding in the whites. Another way is to spread it with jelly before folding and serving it.

MISS RITTINGER

MISS LAUGHBAUM

The betrothals of two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sell, 288 Park avenue west, are announced simultaneously today by the parents of the young men's fiancees. Miss Betty Rittinger, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Rittinger, 147 Benton street, is the bride-elect of H. James Sell. Miss Wanda Laughbaum is the fiancee of C. Richard Sell and her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Laughbaum, 28 South Gamble street, Shelby. No wedding date has been set by either couple.

Cottage Garden Club Holds Tulip Display At Meeting

MRS. S. A. RICHARDSON, 452 Shepard road, was hostess to members of the Cottage Garden club Friday for a luncheon at 1 o'clock. Associate hostess was Mrs. G. K. Schooler. Attractive floral arrangements decorated the serving table and were used effectively throughout the home.

Twenty members and one guest, Mrs. Daisey Mortley, of Columbus, were in attendance. One of the features of the day was the display of tulips grown by members of the club.

Mrs. Frank Forshee presented the program, speaking on "Tulips and Spring Blooming Bulbs." She said the tulips first grew wild in Persia and were introduced to Europe through Turkey. Now the largest tulip center is in Holland, Mich.

Instead of meeting on May 28 as was scheduled the club will convene on June 11 with Mrs. Dean Dickerson, 417 Chevy Chase road. Mrs. E. L. Robertson will be the associate hostess.

Club Pilgrimage

Eighteen members of the Art Study club left Mansfield Friday morning for a pilgrimage to Oberlin where they visited the Dudley Peter Allen Memorial Art Museum. The present exhibit at the museum is of Swedish art, ceramics and textiles. The group had luncheon at the Oberlin Inn before returning home. This was the final meeting until the picnic in August.

Pleasant Valley Garden Club Entertained At McConnells

THE Pleasant Valley Garden club met at the home of Mrs. James McConnell, 638 Sloane avenue, for a dessert luncheon Friday. The table was centered with lilacs and tulips with candles on each side.

Mrs. Henry L. Huber, president, conducted the business session. She told of a state organization meeting to be held at Fremont, Sept. 22. Announcement was made of the Garden Club Center luncheon on May 27. Mrs. Eldon Johnson gave a report on horticulture. Mrs. Robert Kuhn was appointed by the president welfare chairman and will be assisted by Mrs. Robert Gowing.

After the meeting Mrs. Eldon Johnson gave a talk on "When and Where to Plant Perennials." She told about the planting and performance of the ten highest perennials. Mrs. Johnson stressed to keeping the beds simple and the importance of preparing the soil first.

The next meeting will be May 28 at the home of Mrs. Howard Ripper, 1154 Woodland road, with Mrs. Robert Paxton speaking on "Shrubs, and Planting Among the Shrubs."

There are almost a million fewer farms in the United States than there were 20 years ago.

THRIFTY NEEDLERS

The Thrifty Needlers met Thursday noon for luncheon in the home of Mrs. John George, Park avenue west. A guest at the meeting was Mrs. Tom Rolands. Contests were won by Mrs. Roy Metz, Mrs. Glen Stiemans and Mrs. Rolands. Mrs. John Jordon, Ashland, will be the hostess for the final meeting May 27.

Snap beans cut into small pieces and mixed with diced celery make a different and delicious vegetable dish. They may be served plain or in an herb-flavored cream sauce.

LUELLA BAUSCH WED TO ROBERT DURTSCHE MAY 9

Ceremony Performed By Rev. R. Elliker In Calvary Evangelical and Reformed Church.

CRESTLINE—Mrs. Fern Redeker announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Luella Bausch of Crestline, to Robert P. Durtsche, son of Mrs. Mary Durtsche of Galion.

The single ring ceremony was performed May 9 at noon in the parsonage of Calvary Evangelical and Reformed church in Galion by Rev. R. R. Elliker.

The couple were attended by the bride's daughter, Miss Beverly Jane Bausch of Crestline, and Clyde Kelley of Galion.

The bride wore a powder blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Her attendant wore a black and white striped suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

A wedding dinner was served in the home of the bridegroom's mother in Galion following the ceremony.

Mr. Durtsche is employed at the Galion Iron Works. The couple will reside with the bride's mother in Crestline.

Galionites Are Married In Kentucky

GALION — Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lankford, Route 1, Galion, announce the marriage of their daughter, Shirley, to William Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, Route 1, Galion.

The double ring ceremony was performed May 8 in the First Methodist church of Greenup, Ky., by Rev. R. B. Allen.

The bride wore a white eyelet dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Jeanette Phillips of Iberia was maid of honor. She wore a blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

James Rivers was best man.

Since returning from a short wedding trip, the couple are making their home with the parents of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison both attended school in Galion. The bride is employed at the Stratbury Manufacturing company.

Maxine Rish Is Betrothed

CRESTLINE — Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Rish of North Henry street announce the engagement of their daughter, Maxine, to Robert Frye, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Frye of West Main street.

The announcement was made at a party given by Mrs. Rish for a number of her friends. The announcement was found in prescription capsules when lunch was served.

The ceremony will take place May 29 at 9 a. m. in an open church ceremony in St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Nora Stansberry Wed To Mr. Grove

GALION — Nora Stansberry and Henry Grove, who were married May 1 in the parsonage of the First Methodist church, are now at home to friends at 114½ Liberty street.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. Norman R. Somerville at 8 p. m. The couple was attended by Audrey Sowers and Wayne Ulrich.

The bride wore a dusty rose dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses and sweetpeas.

ALICE ROCKWELL TO WED

WILLARD — Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rockwell announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to Frank Burwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elver Burwell of North Fairfield. The wedding date has not as yet been set.

LOUDONVILLE — Mrs. Jennie Yarman of North Spring street announces the marriage of her daughter, Harriet Ann, to Roger Hunter, son of Gaylord Hunter, April 24.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. H. T. Grabau in the Zion Lutheran church.

The bride wore a white gabardine suit with white accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

The bride was attended by Miss Cherie Ross. She wore a rose gabardine suit with black accessories and a white corsage. Mrs. Yarman wore a powder blue crepe dress with black accessories and a white shoulder corsage.

Richard Beck was best man.

A reception for 25 friends was held in the home of the bride following the ceremony.

The couple are both graduates of Loudonville high school, class of 1947. Mrs. Hunter is employed at Perrysville Pottery and her husband works at the Flxible company.

They will be at home to friends after June 1 in their North Wood street apartment.

In 1908 an automobile tire cost about $35 and would run about 2,000 miles, while in 1936 a tire cost about $8 and would run about 20,000 miles.

Miss Hoffmeyer To Wed May 21

LOUDONVILLE—Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Hoffmeyer announce the engagement of their daughter, Gwynn Marguriete Hoffmeyer, to Harry Eugene Conrad jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eugene Conrad sr.

The couple will exchange vows Friday evening, May 21, in the home of the bride's parents. Immediate members of both families will be present.

Both Miss Hoffmeyer and Mr. Conrad are members of the graduating class of 1948 of Loudonville high school.

Carolyn Healy Is Married

BUCYRUS—Relatives here have been informed of the marriage of Miss Carolyn Healy, daughter of Mrs. Z. N. Healy of Bucyrus, to Dr. Joseph Reuben Budd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Budd of Passaic, N. J.

The wedding took place May 9 in Passaic where the bride has been supervising nurse of the maternity building of Passaic hospital for six years.

Mrs. Budd is a graduate of Bucyrus high school and the Passaic General hospital school of nursing. Her husband is a graduate of Northwestern Medical School.

The couple are honeymooning in Bermuda.

Miss Meihack Betrothed to Cecil Miller

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Meihack, 985 Park avenue west, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen Lloyd, to Cecil Arden Miller, New Haven, Conn. The wedding is to be June 26 at 4:30 p. m. in the Meihack home.

Attending the couple will be Miss Mary Lewis Meihack, sister of the bride-elect, who will be maid of honor. The matron of honor will be Mrs. Robert Ballard, Kirkwood, Mo., who is a cousin of Miss Meihack. Miss Charlotte Purdy and Miss Joan Lewis Meihack, another sister of the bride-elect, will serve as bridesmaids.

The best man will be Mr. Miller's brother, Richard, of Columbus. They are the sons of Harley Miller, a former Mansfielder who now resides in Columbia, Mo.

Dr. Joseph F. King, pastor of the First Congregational church at Oberlin, will officiate for the ceremony.

Miss Meihack is a graduate of Oberlin college and for the past year has been assisting in the biology department there and doing graduate work in Education.

Mr. Miller attended Oberlin college and will be graduated from the Yale university School of Medicine in June. He recently was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical society.

MISS HELEN LLOYD MEIHACK

Local Deanery Holds Meeting

Twenty-five members of the Mansfield Deanery of Catholic Nurses held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Bess Easley, 18 Raymond avenue, in Shelby, May 12. Miss Mary Bushey, a delegate to the National Council of Catholic Nurses' convention held in Boston, Mass., gave a report.

Following the business meeting cards were played. The prizes were won by Mrs. James F. Carrigan and Miss Dorothy Rener. Refreshments were served from a table decorated with spring flowers and a birthday cake in observance of the birthday of Florence Nightingale, founder of nurses' training schools.

This was the final meeting of the year. A picnic will be held in August with the time and place to be announced later.

Omega Tau Gamma Has Initiation

The regular meeting of Omega Tau Gamma sorority was held Friday in the clubrooms of the YMCA. Hostesses were Mrs. Paul Kurtz, Mrs. Elmer Walters and Mrs. Fred Antrican.

Mrs. Marie Weisbauer and Mrs. Edward Osgar were in charge of the informal initiation of six new members. They are Mrs. L. S. Tivener, Mrs. Nick Wagner, Mrs. Manford Crum, Miss Naomi Remy, Mrs. Wright Bailey and Mrs. Harold White.

A luncheon was served and the rest of the evening spent socially. Prizes were won by Mrs. Osgar and Mrs. White.

Formal initiation will be held May 25 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The next regular meeting will be held June 11 at the clubrooms. The hostesses are to b Mrs. Cloyce Hunter, Mrs. Joseph Kumisarek, Mrs. Wayne McAfee and Mrs. Osgar.

Gossip From M. H. S.

By ANN SCHOENMAN

Start counting the days, kids. Time is slipping away very, very fast. We have but a few days left to gather memories to last the rest of our days . . .

Congratulations go to Ann Schawber and Norma McCally for being the new editors-in-chief of the Hypho . . . Susie Stoodt is just waiting for June 10 to roll around. I wonder why . . . Ellen Bromfield should have a calendar. She was to take a cake to a bake sale and she only went a week early. She claims that she wanted to be on time . . . Betsy Clark says that she won't embarrass Jake Elams by calling to her when she comes into English class again while it is in session . . . Say, did you know that we've got quite a talented person roaming the halls? If you haven't heard about it Marge Selby has won a scholarship to Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. She won from contestants all over the country. We can be quite proud that she goes to M. H. S. Good luck, Marge! . . .

* * *

Here are a few of the last minute changes and new dates for the prom . . . Fritz Miller is going with Barbara Bauer; Phyliss Stanton and Lowell McCracken; Bob Catlett with Martha Schooley; Mary Ann Russell will be there with Charles Robertson; Carl Hamman and Martha Jamison will trip the light fantastic; and Pete Logas and Joyce Swaney are counting the days until May 28 . . .

* * *

What did Conrad Harris have out at his house one day to lure several people there? . . . Did you know also that we have some other students that we can be very proud of? They are Nancy Osborn, Margaret Ann Lindley, John Kern, and Marianne Harry. They are four of the top ten per cent who took the Pepsi Cola scholarship test. We've got quite a class this year . . . Have you noticed the new watch Carolyn Pifer is sporting? It's one of her graduation presents. It's real sharp too . . . Evelyn Draves is acclaiming the fact that she is now one of the lucky persons to make sixty words a minute in typing . . .

The retiring president, Mrs. David Ellison, and the new president will each speak briefly to the group.

Horoscope

For Monday, May 17.

Monday's astrological forecast holds augury of errors and false judgments, mistakes in handling writings, contracts, oral agreements, lost papers, undesirable promises, or even an involved or distorted physical condition. Relations with others in home, business, finance or agencies, may be complicated by restless, agitated or enervated conditions of mind or body. Postpone decisions or action until the faculties are clearer.

A child born on this day is prone to erroneous decisions, wrong conclusions, under lack of continuity, nervous tension or restless energies, reacting on health and fortunes in a dubious manner.

Little Mozarts Give Program At Pavilion

Seventy-five were in attendance Wednesday evening when members of the Little Mozart Music club presented a program for parents and friends at Prospect park pavilion. Thirty of the club participated.

Stephen Walters gave an accordion solo and vocal numbers were sung by Carmen Long, Donald Currens, Tommy Gentille and Theo Christ. Beth Ann and Ida Joan Smith played a violin and piano duet.

Piano solos were played by Charles Takos, Shirley Gurtz, Patty Blaney, Joe O'Hail, Karen Takos, Beverly Heilman, Eilene Logan, Rollie Bertka, James Smith, Elizabeth Schaeffer and Philip Jones. Separate piano solos were given by Barbara Colangelo, Joan Brucato and Carolyn Marshall. A piano trio with Barbara Colangelo, Joan Brucato and Carolyn Marshall played several selections.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Blaney, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Marshall, and Mrs. LeRoy Teeters.

The June meeting will be held at North Lake park with a picnic dinner.

Party Fetes Jayne Dean

Miss Jayne Dean was honored Thursday evening with a shower given by her sisters, Mrs. Edward Miller and Miss Joan Dean. The Dean home, 22 Hoffman avenue, was the scene of the party.

Fifteen guests were present to make the bride's book. Contests were enjoyed with prizes going to Mrs. William Levison and Miss Josephine McFarland. The honoree received many gifts and a gift of china from the hostesses.

A buffet luncheon was served from a table centered with spring flowers with two yellow tapers on each side and miniature umbrellas.

Miss Dean is the bride-elect of Wayne L. Murphy of 550 South Main street. The wedding will take place June 5 at St. Luke's Lutheran church with the Rev. H. S. Garnes officiating for the closed formal ceremony.

Mrs. Alexander Entertains Club

Mrs. H. F. Alexander, 966 Paxford place, was hostess Thursday afternoon to the Mary Martha Bible club when the members studied the Book of Ruth under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Craig. This session concluded the club's studies for the year.

Devotions were led by Mrs. J. Gerhart who read the 13th chapter of First Corinthians and a poem which had a related theme. She closed with prayer.

Mrs. A. Laubscher conducted the business meeting and announced that the club will meet May 27 with Mrs. Sadie Peregoy, 750 Woodhill road, for the annual picnic.

Bucyrus Jaycees Repeat Fly, Mosquito Control Project

Plan First Developed Last Year

Sponsors Hope for Public Health Award

BUCYRUS — The Jaycees are in the process of repeating a project which brought comfort to all Bucyrians last summer.

The fly and mosquito control program initiated last year by the group also brought them statewide prominence along with the hope of winning a public health award at the state convention in Cincinnati May 14-16.

A scrap book carrying complete information and pictures of the project already has been forwarded to the State Jaycees Awards committee for consideration.

The control plan was developed by Dick Ulmer, young Bucyrus businessman. Experiencing the comforts of the same type of control while he was stationed in the South Pacific, Ulmer decided to experiment with the process around his place of business upon his return to civilian life.

Passing his information on to the Jaycees, the group pioneered in the work last year. This year, the state organization has sponsored similar projects by clubs all through the state.

COST KEPT DOWN

Faced with the need for keeping down expenditures, the Jaycees carried on the work last year with two portable sprays. This year, the club has added a large 55-gallon spray mounted on a conduit frame and equipped with hose and pressure spray nozzle. The large unit was made at a cost of less than $20. Another portable spray was also added this year.

A .25 per cent concentrate of DDT, diluted to five per cent, is used in the sprays. The solution is residual and will remain effective for up to 60 days. The spraying will be repeated late in July.

Starting with business houses in the downtown area, entrances and alleyways were sprayed by a group of members. Working in shifts of two, after business hours, the work will progress to the city farm where garbage dumps will be sprayed.

Aumiller park will also be worked over to elminiate the mosquitoes which are a nuisance to picnickers.

To supplement this work, the Jaycees are again setting up an oil drop on the Sandusky river to eliminate propagation or the insects. Fifteen to 20 drops of oil per minute are dropped into the water throughout the summer months.

All Bucyrians again are looking forward to the use of porches and parks in comfort.

Scientists Hail Invention

Lucas Man Develops Soil Testing Kit

LUCAS—Don Page Leiter of Lucas, graduate student at Ohio State university, has done something practical about soil conservation.

Don, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Leiter, Lucas grocers, and a friend, Dan Rosebaum of Pomeroy, have developed a portable soil testing kit that enables anyone not colorblind to determine the exact composition of a handful of soil in 28 minutes.

The idea for the device came to the pair while they were undergraduate students of engineering at Capital university. They experimented on the side as they worked towards their bachelor of science degrees at Capital.

Both youths are now graduate students at Ohio State university where they perfected the apparatus with the help of Professor Grover Orr of the science department.

After being tested on various speciments of soil in the Columbus area, including that of the State House lawn, the invention was presented to the Ohio Academy of Scientists at Toledo university May 7. Prof. Orr demonstrated it there owing to the death of Rosebaum's mother at Pomeroy and term examinations that prevented Leiter's attendance at the session.

Agronomists and scientists alike are lavish in their praise of the device that can be operated by anyone able to read a label or distinguish colors.

DISSOLVES SOIL

The soil sample is dissolved in a bit of liquid especially designed for making it soluble. The solution is then filtered and the actual test is ready to begin.

A few drops of various kinds of reagents are added with the resultant colors denoting the presence of mineral elements—or lack of them.

Confident that the young men have developed a salable device, a Milwaukee industrialist has offered financial backing for manufacturing the kits. The boys haven't reached any decision about that yet.

Right now, Leiter, employed half-time by Bratelle Research chemists, the biggest independent research concern in the United States, is debating their offer to work full-time instead of completing his work toward an Ohio State master's degree.

Man Found Dead In Jail

BUCYRUS — Coroner O. R. Kackley Saturday launched an investigation into the death of Hiram Eggleston, 76, who was found dead earlier yesterday in the city jail.

Eggleston, 416½ Norton way, Bucyrus, was arrested Friday night on an intoxication charge, and was put into a cell with Mike Lynch, 73.

Lynch told investigators that Eggleston stumbled and struck his head against the bars of the cell door. He got up again, fell against the wall and remained where he had fallen. Lynch said that he hadn't called for help because he thought that Eggleston was drunk.

Eggleston, a blacksmith, was born March 27, 1875, in Sunbury.

He leaves his wife, Hattie; seven sons, John, Isaac, Joseph, Abraham, Emmet and Robert, all of Bucyrus, and Paul, in the Army; four daughters, Mrs. Ovida Melick, Bucyrus, Mrs. Harold Phillips, Cleveland, and Jean and Doris Eggleston, both of Galion.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Wise funeral home here with the Salvation Army in charge. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

ROTARY HOLDS DINNER

LOUDONVILLE — Twenty couples from the local Rotary club went to Mansfield last week for a Rotary Ann dinner at the Southern hotel. Albert Arnholt was in charge of arrangements.

Lucas Restricts Parking; Cracks Down On Speeders

LUCAS — New traffic regulations went into effect in Lucas last week.

New signs were erected designating "no parking" areas on all four corners at the street light corner, the intersection of Main and Union streets, and at the bus stops.

New "30 minutes" parking areas were set up and large signs were erected at each edge of the village calling attention to the 25-mile-per-hour speed limit through the village.

Walter Jones, who has held the post of full time marshal since Jan. 1, was instructed by city council to be on the alert for all offenders in an effort to curtail speeding, reckless driving and improper parking within the village.

Action of the council was prompted by recommendations of the Lucas Vets club last November following a series of traffic accidents, including one fatality.

The main street of the village is also State Route 39. Most of the accidents have occurred on that street.

CPL. FINN

Finn, who was killed by a sniper's bullet July 24, 1944, will be laid to rest in Long Island National cemetery, Farmingdale, N. Y.

Finn had met his brother, Frederick, on Saipan July 16, 1944 prior to the battle of Tinian. Eight days later, he was killed in action in which Frederick also took part with a different division. Frederick didn't learn of the death until a month later.

Cpl. Finn was born in Dade City, Fla., and entered the Marine Corps in Feb., 1942. He received his training at the Marine base in Philadelphia. He was awarded the Purple Heart and received the Bronze Star posthumously.

His mother, Mrs. Amelia Finn, lives in Clifton, N. J. He also leaves two brothers who live in New Jersey and another brother in the U. S. Navy.

To Receive Ordination

SHELBY—The third son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Armbruster of Shelby to be ordained as a priest in the Catholic church will receive his ordination as Rev. Boniface Armbruster in the Benediction order at the St. Meinard seminary at St. Meinard, Ind., Tuesday.

He will offer up his first Solemn High mass in the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church here at 10 a. m., May 23.

Born in Shelby, Mr. Armbruster graduated from St. Mary's parochial school here and completed his studies at the St. Meinard seminary.

The other two brothers, Rev. Leo Armbruster, assistant priest at St. Peter's Catholic church in Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Rev. Alfred Armbruster of St. John's Catholic church at Lima, will take part in the mass here Sunday.

Area Resident Claims Record Blood Donations of 52 Pints

By TERRY GRIFFITH
N.-J. State Correspondent

MT. GILEAD— Six and one-half gallons, or 52 pints, of blood have been given by a Morrow county resident to save lives. This, according to Frank Halliwell, 31, the donor, is a record in the United States and is surpassed only by a Britisher who has given over 70 pints.

Halliwell has worked as a farm hand on the Eston Baird farm north of Edison for the past two months. He lived in Iberia from 1925 to 1927 while his father, Rev. R. Halliwell, was pastor of the Presbyterian church there.

Starting after his brother lost a leg at Guadalcanal during the war and was saved by a blood transfusion, Halliwell has given a pint of blood every six weeks to a person in need to a hospital or to the Red Cross. His most recent donation was April 29 when he took time off from his farm chores to hitch-hike to Columbus and back to give a pint of blood to the Children's hospital.

MAKES NO CHARGE

Halliwell charges nothing for the blood and says that he is giving it to prove that, despite the unsettled times, the spirit of good neighborliness still exists. Another reason for his contribution, he says, is to impress upon people that although the war is over, there is still a great need for blood donors.

In 1946, while on furlough from the Army, he flew from Johnstown, Pa., to Philadelphia to give a pint of blood that helped save the life of a boy who was badly burned around the lower half of the body. Publicity given to the trip produced 450 volunteers to give blood at the hospital the next day.

He has a rare type blood, "O" RH negative, which will cross with most any type of blood.

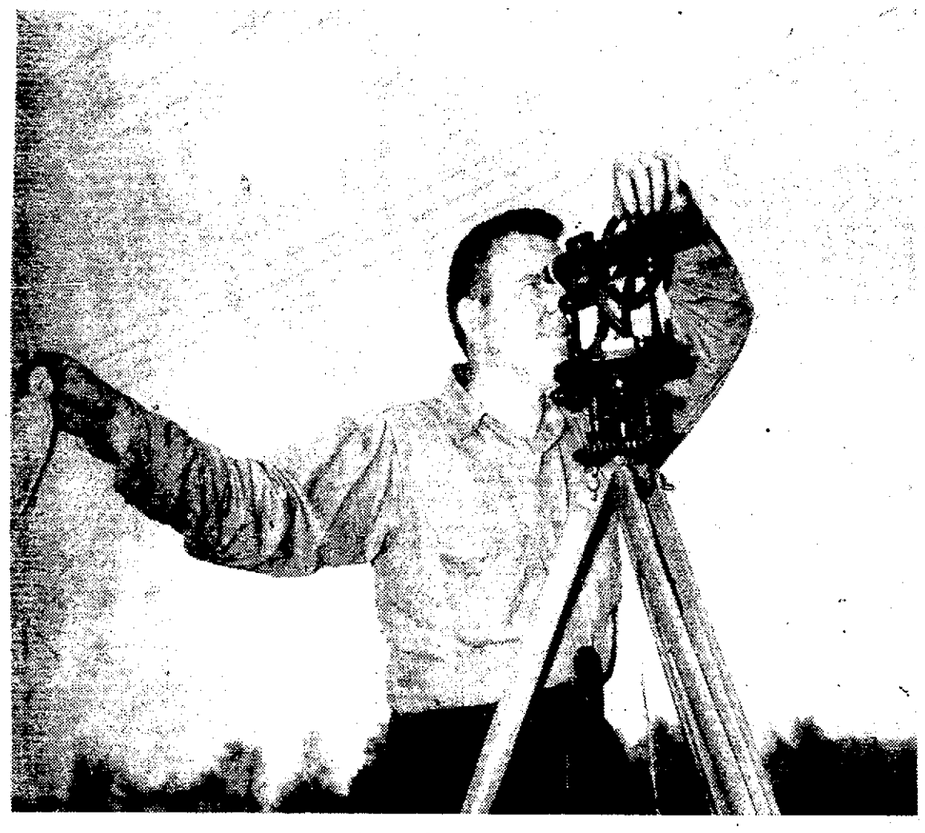
Engineers Plan a Road Project

DRAWS PLANS—A squad chief of the planning section, M. C. Hagan of Ashland, using sheafs of field notes taken by field surveying and planning crews and in close cooperation with the design group for the division, draws the first series of workable plans. Various phases of the project are then drawn by the division's large staff of draftsmen. When completed, the plans are sent to the central office for approval.

MAKES DECISIONS—Focal point of the many state highway department projects in the Mansfield area is the Ashland office of C. H. Bricker of Medina, division three engineer. Upon him is placed the responsibility of recognizing the need for a particular piece of highway work. Having seen the advisability of a project, he recommends it to the highway department's central office in Columbus. There the project is passed upon. If approved, a financial appropriation is made and the division engineer puts the project into the hands of the division "design group."

PLANS PROJECT—This highly competent group of engineers direct the planning of the project in a series of conferences such as pictured above. They are, left to right, E. L. Toberan of Ashland, design engineer for the division; P. K. Troutman of Polk, assistant location and design engineer; E. F. Ruhl of Ashland, engineer and location designer for division, and R. E. Shultz of Bowling Green, regional planning engineer.



OBTAINS DATA—A member of one of several surveying teams is Instrument Man Russell Thomas of Hayesville, whose job it is to gather the mass of field data needed by the planning groups and draftsmen. Working in all kinds of weather, it often takes a hard-working field party several weeks to compile the reams of complicated figures that tell an engineer what he needs to know.

PROJECT UNDER WAY—This bridge job on State Route 39 near Lucas, the end product of a long series of planning conferences and decisions, will cost almost twice what it would have cost before the war, according to highway department officials. Estimate for this bridging job was $71,546. Highway officials say that high costs mean that they can do just half the miles of road work and construction they did in pre-war years.

SUPERVISE WORK—Project Engineer H. W. Mansfield directly supervises work on this project. The construction company which submitted the lowest bid and still was able to meet the requirements and qualifications set up by state law is awarded the work contract and is responsible for actual labor and construction. Wartime Neglect Boosts Bill

Nation's Roads Need Extensive Repairs

NEW YORK — (AP) — The nation's highways are facing the biggest repair job in history.

Neglect during the war years, an ever increasing volume of traffic and a severe winter have boosted the 1948 repair and maintenance estimate to a record high of more than $1,000,000,000.

Federal and private sources agree that the bill to fill the holes, smooth the frost blisters, covers the rough spots and maintain the highway will run to the record high estimate.

The current high cost of materials enters into the picture, but the story really begins back in the war years.

Roads were neglected mainly because of wartime restrictions on materials. Maintenance was cut down by manpower shortages and scarcity of equipment. Repairs became simply minor patch jobs.

A federal public roads official compared those wartime repairs with patching pants that were wearing quickly because of constant use without a cleaning and pressing job.

ROADS TOOK BEATING

The trunk arteries and the rural roads took a terrific beating as traffic volume increased. Motor vehicle registration rose from 34,356,000 in 1941 to 37,000,000 last year. Registrations of trucks, which pound the highways hardest, jumped from 4,859,234 in 1941 to an estimated 6,500,000 last year.

As manpower expanded and materials grew less short in the postwar days, the increasing number of motorists began to expect better service, quicker snow removal, wider traffic lanes.

Then, this winter hit. The frost line extended farther south than any time in recent years. Snows were heavier. Temperatures were lower. And spring floods washed out what snow and frost hadn't forced apart.

Neglected highways, pounded by increased loads, heaved themselves out of shape. And as the motorist protested the bumps and jolts, and survey crews began estimates, costs rose.

A federal public roads official at Washington summed up the question of cost as follows—highway work that cost $1 in 1935, cost $1.71 in 1947.

Of the paved surfaces, more than 70 per cent are of asphalt, the black top road that is perhaps most familiar to old and young motorists from the city and from the country.

Asphalt is not a new product. It has been known for thousands of years—one story is that the basket in which the infant Moses was placed was waterproofed with a coating of asphalt cement.

It is a petroleum product. A little of it comes from pitch lakes similar to Trinidad's widely-known tourist spot. Engineers call them oil wells that ran wild centuries ago.

But most asphalt is derived from petroleum by the nation's oil refineries.

Bernard E. Gray, who heads the Asphalt Institute, says "The product that uses the roads builds them — petroleum paves the highways over which its gasoline and oil are used."

Gray says water causes more highway trouble than heavy traffic. Snow, plowed to the sides of the road, melts and creeps beneath the surface, causing upheavals, just as frost gets into the cracks and forms big blisters.

The heavy traffic, Gray said, is not the trouble maker it once was. The balloon tire, he said, has eased the wear and tear on the highways considerably since the day of the iron-wheeled wagon and the hard-tired truck.

Evangelist To Speak Here

Rev. D. R. Moreland of Saxon, Pa., evangelist, will conduct a revival meeting at the Church of God, 538 Wayne street at 7:30 p. m. today.

He also will preach at the morning worship hour at 11 a. m. today. Rev. Moreland conducted a series of revival meetings several years ago at the church.

Fire Engulfs Summer Resort

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. —(AP)— A gasoline-fed fire engulfed an entire downtown block of the business section here Saturday causing approximately $1,000,000 damage.

The blaze was brought under control after 100 Navajo Indians were called in from nearby beet fields to relieve exhausted volunteer firemen.

Volunteer Fire Chief Joe Blanco said only one person—a fireman—received burns which might prove fatal. Three persons earlier reported missing were found uninjured.

Late in the afternoon the fire had been pushed back from the 11 gasoline storage tanks where it started Saturday morning. The blaze was cornered in a small auxiliary yard of the United Lumber company whose main yard was completely destroyed.

Hotels Open Drive For More Business

NEW YORK— (AP) —There still may be times when you can't get a room at your favorite hotel on the day you want it—but things have changed a lot since the war.

They've changed so much hotels now are more concerned with finding guests for their rooms than rooms for their guests.

Hotel business generally is above pre-war levels, but that's not good enough. Before the war, a hotel with 100 rooms could break even—on the average—if it rented 65 of them. Anything over that was profit.

Since then, costs have gone up to the point that 85 per cent of a hotel's room must be occupied for it to break even. That's also an average figure, and some hotels must have an even higher percentage of their rooms rented before they start making money.

Figures compiled . . New York headquarters of the American Hotel association show the national average of hotel room rentals is getting disturbingly close to the break-even point.

The association says hotel occupancy averaged 92 per cent for the year ended last October, down two per cent from the previous year. In January it was 86 per cent compared with 90 the previous January. From New York City, the March figure was 89 per cent.

Since those figures are averages, it means some hotels did better—and some did worse. Hotel rates have gone up, too, says the association, but not nearly as much as costs.

HOTEL MODERNIZING

They are conducting their own training courses and cooperating with vocational schools in instructions designed to bring service back to or above pre-war standards.

The hotels also are angling their advertising and promotion to attract guests during the slack days of the week. Except for resort areas, week-ends are the slack periods now in most places.

John F. Kinerk, business promotion director of the Hotel association, recently told a group of hotel men that week-end business in the nation's key cities is running 30 per cent behind last year.

The hotel industry, says Charles A. Horrworth, AHA executive vice president, is proceeding cautiously in its post-war spending program because of its experiences after the last war. Then, overexpansion resulted in a big percentage of hotels going through the financial wringer—some of them two and even three times.

$1,000 A ROOM

Many hotels are spending more than $1,000 a room on redecorating and modernizing. Samples picked at random from reports to the association include these: Anthony, Ft. Wayne, Ind., $500,000 on 300 rooms; Claypool, Indianapolis, $1,000,000 on 600 rooms; Casey, Scranton, Pa., $400,000 on 40 rooms.

But some large and expensive new hotels also are in the works. The new $10,000,000 Terrace Plaza at Cincinnati is well on the way to completion. Plans have been announced for a $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 Statler at Los Angeles, a $3,700,000 hotel at Newport Harbor, Calif., and a $2,500,000 hotel at Williams, Ariz.

A popular trend in new projects and modernization plans, said Horrworth, is the studio type guest room that is a sitting room in the daytime and a bedroom at night. But the hotels adopting this plan find they still need to have some conventional type hotel rooms for guests who like the old conventional arrangement.

The new $3,000,000 Mapes at Reno, Nev., is among the ultra-modern jobs with such features as coin-operated recording devices in each room for making souvenir recordings—and push-button perfume selection. The guest has a choice of three scents for the room, selected by pushing one of three buttons.

The Hotel Roosevelt in New York has been offering rooms with television at three dollars a day extra since last fall, and a dozen or more others here and in other cities plan to offer television soon.
